Cuba to Get Canada Wheat In Russ Deal

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—In a deal aimed at feeding Cuba and other Soviet satellites as well as the U.S.S.R. itself, Russia today agreed to buy more than $500 million worth of Canadian wheat.

It is the biggest wheat sale in Canadian history.

Under the deal announced here by Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp, the Soviet Union has the right to divert unspecified amounts of the wheat to "European socialist" countries other than Russia, subject to protection of regular Canadian markets in such Communist countries as Poland.

The deal also includes a specific and separate arrangement whereby Russia will pay cash for $33 million worth of wheat to be shipped directly from Canada to Cuba.

Reason for the deal is that Russia, normally a wheat exporter, had a poor crop this year. This reason was given by both Mr. Sharp and the head of the Soviet negotiators, S. A. Borisov, Soviet first deputy trade minister.

REVELATION LATER

It was not until after the two men had made their official announcements after signing a new three-year Canada-Soviet trade agreement under which the wheat is being sold, that it was disclosed Russia would not be taking all the wheat.

Mr. Sharp made the disclosures about the "diversions" to European Communist countries and Cuba under questioning by reporters.

The amount to be shipped to Cuba, he said, would be 16.5 million bushels (240,000 tons of wheat and 150,000 tons of flour) valued at $33 million. The Russians, Mr. Sharp added, had given no idea as to the amount of diversions to Soviet satellites in Europe.

The U.S. government had been kept informed of the Canadian negotiations with Russia and also had been told of

HUSBAND DEAD

Ordeal at Sea Told by Wife Of Ex-City Man

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—

"He kept asking for water. He became delirious after about three days. Then he was gone."

That's the way Mrs. Stuart L. Slade described the death of her husband as they drifted aboard their disabled cruiser.

Mr. Slade formerly lived in Victoria.

A small wiry woman with a deep tan, Mrs. Slade was rescued after 10 days adrift in the leaky cabin cruiser. The last three days were spent beside the body of her husband.

The tanker Perryville rescued Mrs. Slade Saturday. A U.S. Coast Guard cutter attempted to take the cruiser in tow, but it

SUNNY DAY HEADY BREW IN BRITAIN

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP)—When England gets that rare thing—a full day of brilliant sunshine—the natives become festive.

Take Sunday at the local Spread Eagle pub:

A customer walked out of the pub clad only in his shirt and shoes. He left behind him his coat, pants, hat, underwear and false teeth.

Said Mrs. Rena Owen, wife of the pub-keeper:

"It must have been the weather—the most glorious day this summer. It went to their heads more than the beer did."

"All we want is for the chap to collect his stuff. This sunshine won't last, and he'll need his clothes."

FEAR WAR

Malaysia Faces Dark Future

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Violent demonstrations in Indonesia and a cold shoulder from the Philippines darkened the birth of Malaysia today. In its first hours of life, the new nation found itself in deep trouble with its two biggest neighbors.

Neither the Philippines nor Indonesia recognizes the federation of Malaysia. In Indonesia, mobs stormed the British and Malayan embassy compounds to protest birth of the British-supported federation. In Manila the Philippine officials withheld recognition pending consultations with their diplomatic experts.

Both nations have placed claims to the North Borneo section of Malaysia.

KNEEL IN PRAYER

As Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman and King Yangdi-Petnam Agong of Malaya knelt here in prayerful thanksgiving, angry demonstrators stoned the Malayan and British embassies in Jakarta, Indonesia, in support of their government's opposition to the federation. A crowd of 5,000 tore down the British flag, smashed windows and set the British ambassador's car ablaze.

Malaya was the leader of the formation of Malaysia, bringing under one flag with Malaya the British colonies of Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo.

Malaysia foreign secretary Ghazalie Shafie expressed concern about the enmity of Indonesia and the Philippines. Asked by reporters whether Malaysia was prepared for a possible war with Indonesia if its hostility persisted, Shafie said:

"Let's hope to God not. We should not talk of war."

The Indonesian army heavily outnumbered the Malaysian armed forces, but the British are committed to Malaysian defence.

In a midnight address proclaiming the federation of Malaysia, Prime Minister Rahman told a crowd of 25,000 they must be ready to "sacrifice their lives to defend their country."

Rahman had been faced with some internal difficulties, too, in building Malaysia, which he calls a wall against the spread of communism in Southeast Asia.

In separate inaugural ceremonies in Singapore, Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew welcomed his state's admission to Malaysia but showed some of the misgivings of others within the federation by saying Singapore's relationship would not be one of servant to master.

'Extremely Vigorous' Quints Doing Well

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP)—The Fischer quintuplets rounded out their first 48 hours of life today with good prospects for survival.

The tiny but extremely vigorous babies born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer early Saturday were reported doing fine.

Dr. James Berbos, who delivered the infants, said they still were going strong on a diet of sugar water and may be switched to something heavier today, such as a milk formula.

Dr. Berbos reported that the infants were being fed about four cubic centimetres of sugar water every two hours.

QUEEN ELIZABETH
... fourth child

Queen Expecting A Baby

LONDON (AP)—The Queen is expecting a baby early next year, Buckingham Palace announced tonight. It will be her fourth child.

The announcement came from the palace while the Queen was on her annual holiday with her family at Balmoral Castle in Scotland. Her press secretary said:

"Both the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh are, of course, very happy about it."

The 37-year-old Queen and her 42-year-old husband have three children, Prince Charles, 14, heir to the throne and Prince of Wales; Princess Anne, 13, and Prince Andrew, three.

The announcement from Buckingham Palace stated:

"The Queen will undertake no further engagements after Her Majesty leaves Balmoral in October."

The new baby would be only the second child to be born to a reigning monarch in more than 100 years.

THIRD IN LINE

If the baby is a boy it will become third in line of succession to the throne after Prince Charles and Prince Andrew.

Princess Anne will then be fourth in line for the British throne.

If the baby is a girl it will be fifth in succession coming after Princess Anne and before the Queen's sister, Princess Margaret.

The Queen was 33 when she had her last child, Prince Andrew.

He was the first baby born to a reigning British monarch since Queen Victoria's ninth child, Princess Beatrice, 106 years ago.

'Most Frightening Day in Birmingham'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Against a background of violence and death, a special federal jury was ordered today to investigate racial outbreaks that continue to plague this city.

U.S. district judge Clarence W. Allgood in his charge to the grand jury emphasized the dynamite explosion at a Negro church Sunday which killed four young Negro girls and injured 23 other persons.

Two other Negro boys were killed in separate shootings.

"Today has been the most frightening in the history of Birmingham," Sheriff Melvin Bailey said Sunday.

In suburban Sandusky, Virgil Ware, 13, a Negro, allegedly was shot to death by two white youngsters on a motor scooter.

Johnnie Robinson, 16, was shot and killed by police officers, who said they intended to shoot over his head after he threw rocks at their car.

The church blast was the worst of numerous bombings and other violence since Negroes began campaigning in earnest last April for integration here.

'Long Fearful Day and Night'

This tense city spent a long, fearful day and night after Sunday's blast. Several fires broke out, rocks were thrown by Negroes in various sections and some gunfire was reported.

Sunday school classes at the church were just ending a lesson on "the love that forgives" when the explosion tore out concrete, metal and glass.

The four girls apparently were in the lounge in the basement of the old brick church. One, Cynthia Wesley, 14, was hit by the full force of the blast and could be identified only by her clothing and a ring.

The others were Carole Robertson and Addie Mae Collins, both 14, and Denise McNair, 11.

Police estimated that 10 sticks of dynamite went into the death bomb, apparently placed in a stairwell about four feet below ground level outside the building.

The blast occurred while about 200 persons were in the church, including about 80 in basement classrooms. The explosion hurled chunks of concrete, twisted metal and shattered glass against nearby buildings. Several cars were damaged. The street and sidewalks were thickly covered with pieces of glass. Much of the glass came from windows in a nearby building—used for business and rental rooms.

In Washington today, President Kennedy expressed "outrage and grief" over the bombing. The president said that he hoped the tragedy would awaken the nation to "the folly of racial injustice and hatred and violence."

But he did not comment immediately on a telegram from Rev. Martin Luther King, Negro civil rights leader, who sought immediate federal action in Birmingham. Said King in the wire:

"Unless some immediate steps are taken by the federal government... we shall see in Birmingham and Alabama the worst racial holocaust the nation has ever seen."

Roy Wilkins, the executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, wired President Kennedy from New York that unless the federal government offers more than "pity and piecemeal aid against this type of bestiality," Negroes will "employ such methods as

Bombshell Sex Report Lands on Mac's Desk

LONDON (CP)—A bulging report packed with political dynamite was delivered to Prime Minister Macmillan today and will set off a new and bitter chapter in the government sex and security scandal.

The 50,000-word report was personally delivered to the government by Lord Denning, a high court judge who since June 21 has investigated the possibility that the scandal that almost toppled Macmillan's government involved breaches of security.

It centres on the relations of disgraced former war minister John Profumo and party girl Christine Keeler, who also was carrying on an affair with a former Soviet naval attaché, Yevgeny Ivanov. Many Britons believe Denning's report will prove a bombshell.

Denning was asked by Macmillan to examine the security aspects of the affair, in which Profumo admitted lying to Parliament about his love affair with Christine.

But Macmillan also asked the distinguished jurist to probe rumors affecting the honor and integrity of public life in this country.

Within these terms, Denning interviewed 160 witnesses ranging from prostitutes to the prime minister himself, and his report was expected to touch many sensitive spots on high places.

DECLINES COMMENT

Denning declined to comment on newspaper reports that he investigated the personal conduct of at least three cabinet ministers and one former minister.

'FORT BENNETT' ACTION

Itchy Trigger
Finger Blasts
Hole in PeaceBy JOHN MIKA
Times Staff Reporter

HUDSON HOPE—Premier W. A. C. Bennett's plug-blowing ceremony Saturday had a three-sided symbolism that neatly sums up the whole Peace River power project.

It was rushed, dramatic and politically tinged. Several hundred spectators, workmen, reporters, company and government officials witnessed the spectacular explosion that smashed 8,000 cubic yards of solid rock into rubble stretching across the mouths of the three huge diversion tunnels at the Portage Dam site 16 miles from here.

It was rushed: Workmen had barely finished placing 14,700 pounds of high explosive under the rock when the premier stepped into a steel-and-timber bunker overlooking the plug and threw the switch to blow it sky-high. "Bennett.

'Whole Day Ahead of Schedule'

A grinning Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of the B.C. Hydro, said the explosion showed that the high-balling Peace River power project "is well in hand and in fact a whole day ahead of schedule—pretty good for such a huge job."

Dr. Shrum told reporters that it will take another two weeks at least to clear away all the rubble created by the premier's blast and complete a small coffer-dam now stretching part way into the river which will actually push the Peace River into the tunnels. About one per cent of the Peace River's 32,000-cubic-feet-per-second flow began spouting through one end of the blasted plug before the smoke

Crash Program Thrown Into Gear

But Thursday, construction and hydro officials met the premier in his private PGE railway car parked at nearby Dawson Creek and the Saturday spectacular was arranged. A crash program to complete the last touches to the dam, place the explosives and build the bunker—appropriately named Fort Bennett—was thrown into operation at the dam site while B.C. Hydro officials in Vancouver hurried to charter a DC-3 and round up a press party to witness the event. The sudden arrangements were only completed a bare hour before the premier threw the switch at 4:36 p.m. Saturday.

ORDEAL AT SEA

"I kept bailing the water out. First I bailed every five hours, then every three and finally every hour. I don't remember being hungry or thirsty."

Mrs. Slade said the swelling in her husband's leg went down "and I suppose that's when the poison spread through his system. He died in the cabin about three days before they found me."

She flew a large U.S. flag upside down as a distress signal. "I painted 'help' on top of the cabin, in case a plane should see us. I soaked clothes in oil, tied them to a broomstick and fired them."

Then he went to war. "He was really a clever chap," his father said. "He would never study till the last day, then absorb it all at once. He has lots of medals, but he would never tell me anything about them."

RETIRED FIVE YEARS

Lieut. Slade later became a commander, and retired from the RCN five years ago.

His father said: "He was tops in sailing. He had been a junior member of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, and was as keen as mustard. "When he went into the navy, he was able to tell the instructors a thing or two."

But Mr. Slade was "never able to tell where he would go next."

His wartime marriage to a Winnipeg girl had broken up, and his 19-year-old son, Leonard, is living in Vancouver.

FBI agents and bomb experts conducted an exhaustive search for clues at the church. Three hundred state troopers and 500 national guardsmen remained on alert, ready to back up the Birmingham police department if fresh violence erupted.

The bomb blast was described by Judge Allgood, a native of Birmingham, as a "mockery of our laws—a mockery by those who would cut the very roots of our American system of justice."

The bombing brought swift condemnation from national Negro leaders and state local officials.

It was depicted in the U.S. Senate as a tragic blow to race relations. A plea was founded for quicker action on civil rights legislation.

Majority leader Mike Mansfield called the bombing "repulsive and outrageous."

Birmingham Mayor Albert Boutwell said he couldn't understand such viciousness. Governor George Wallace called for the capture of the bombers.

Judge Allgood told the grand jury that racial violence in the name of "tradition and freedom" is "heresy."

He called for an indictment of anyone who has unlawfully obstructed court orders, desegregation of Birmingham schools.

There was no student demonstration around the three integrated schools today, but a boycott appeared to be gaining ground—the school board said attendance was down generally throughout the system.

WHEAT

This is what is involved in the wheat deal:

Russia to buy between now and July 31, the end of the 1963-64 crop year, a total of 239 bushels of Canadian wheat (29.5 million bushels of it in the form of flour), with a total value of about $300 million;

Russia to buy, between April 17, 1965 and April 17, 1966, 500,000 long tons of wheat, or its flour equivalent, which comes to approximately 18.7 million bushels, with a total value of about $36 million.

The wheat contract, made between the Soviet state trading firm V/O Exportkhleb, comes within the terms of a general three-year trade treaty also signed today.

Under the trade agreement Canada and the U.S.S.R. simply extend to each other most-favored-nation tariffs treatment, with neither side committed to purchase any specific amounts of goods.

The protocol renewing previous similar agreements was signed by Mr. Sharp and Mr. Borisov.

In the past five years of the similar trade treaty, the most Russia has purchased from Canada in any one year was $24.6 million in 1956; the most Canada purchased from Russia was $3.2 million in 1960.

Russia is now expected to launch a major sales offensive in Canada in an effort to earn at least some of the Canadian exchange it will require to pay for the wheat.

Credit terms extended to Russia under the wheat agreement require 25 per cent cash for each shipment, with one-third of the remainder payable after six, twelve and eighteen months from date shipment.

More Education Funds
Pledged by Perrault

VANCOUVER (CP) — Liberal leader Ray Perrault said today

his party would provide more money for universities and build a series of vocational schools and community colleges with federal aid if elected Sept. 30.

Unveiling his party's education plank in the provincial election, Mr. Perrault said the Liberals would establish a university grants commission to provide "adequate" money for operating universities.

The party also would build a series of community colleges in B.C. as recommended in the Macdonald report on higher education. The colleges, he said, would be built under federal legislation under which Ottawa would pay 75 per cent of the costs, the provincial government 25 per cent.

SELF GOVERNING

British Columbia's five present technical and vocational schools would be made "self-governing with local representatives forming the governing bodies."

The party also would:

1. Institute a system of travel and board equalization grants for students with "60 per cent or better marks" to travel to university centres and attend university;

2. Open educational facilities "around the clock and around the calendar" for all members of the community;

3. Urge universities to adopt "earn-while-you-learn" programs to enable people who must retain jobs to work towards degrees in their free time;

4. Set aside part of university endowment lands in Vancouver and Victoria as a "research park where industry can combine with university scientists on industrial research projects."

OTTAWA PAID MOST

Mr. Perrault said Ontario had received almost $25,000,000 from the federal government to build vocational institutions, with the province putting up only $75,000,000. In B.C., the Social Credit government had "hardly participated." An esti-

'Cut Work Week to End
Social Welfare' — Strachan

PENTICTON (CP) — Social welfare payments could be made unnecessary in British Columbia by reducing the work week from 44 to 40 hours, Robert Strachan said Saturday night.

"Just watch us get rid of social welfare in B.C.," the provincial New Democratic Party leader told an election campaign audience.

"Anyone who could continue to enforce the present 'starvation ration' policies upon men who are provided only enough work to ensure welfare assistance is out of touch with the 20th century."

The shorter work week, he said, would "stop the flow of complaints from B.C. people who have to work even more than the minimum 44 hours to keep the unemployed fed, and would provide employment for those on starvation ration at the same time."

Turning to his party's medical care proposal, Mr. Strachan said funds for it would come from three sources: $15,000,000 in hand from tolls collected from the now toll-free Okanagan Lake, Nelson and Agassiz-Rosedale bridges; $25,000,000 from normal government revenue, and $10,000,000 from government savings.

The NDP leader said Premier Bennett has drawn his projected costs of medicare from hot air, but the NDP has has even said he agreed with me. But his under-the-breath statement that 50 per cent federal financing would be necessary is nonsense."

Don't Be Frightened By Maps and Graphs

By The Reading Laboratory
(Twelfth in a Series)

We've discussed the "survey and resurvey" method of studying a textbook chapter. You survey the chapter several times: first, read the summary, the largest bold type, and study the maps, graphs and picture captions to find the main ideas; second, read all of the bold type. Then read the first sentence of each paragraph to find the secondary ideas; skim the entire text to get a stronger grasp of the secondary ideas, and, finally, check off the major details that may require memorization.

In this method, the first step is the most important. If you get the main idea of the chapter, everything else will make sense. And the most valuable tools you have to find the main ideas are the maps and graphs.

The old saw says that a picture is worth a thousand words. To a student laboring over a textbook, the maps and graphs can be worth much more.

One battleline map can tell you more than pages of text can—and it's easier to remember. A simple curve in an economics text can define a law in concrete, "guns-and-butter" terms that are much easier to understand than the abstract theorizing of the text.

Yet lots of students seem to be afraid of maps and graphs. They can look imposing when you don't understand them, but the little time needed to decipher them will pay tremendous dividends.

First, Study the Key

Battleline maps can be the most confusing. The first thing you should do is study the key. It'll look complicated, but if you take your time and follow the map line by line, you'll see the whole pattern of the campaign as the lines shift.

The same thing holds true for battle maps using arrows instead of lines. Just take it piece by piece, arrow by arrow, and the meaning will come clear.

Multiline graphs scare a lot of students. But the same principle holds. Find in the key the meaning of each line and trace it separately. Then, after you've understood each line, the graph itself will begin to communicate.

Tables of statistics are another student-scarer. Don't try to learn them; it's foolish and timewasting. Look for a pattern in the statistics. If the entire table is devoted to showing that the real per capita income in the United States rose from X dollars to Y dollars in a certain period of time, be satisfied with knowing that the income rose and about how much it rose. Don't try to learn each separate statistic; get the main idea of the table.

In general, you can get a lot out of maps and graphs if you don't let them scare you. Just go to the key, find out what each line or number means, then find the overall idea behind the map or graph and study it.

Liberals Want Speed On $10 Pension Hike

By JAMES NELSON
OTTAWA (CP)—The government wants Parliament to approve the promised $10 increase in basic old age pensions in time for the new $75 cheques to go into the mail before the end of October, an official spokesman says.

The universal old age pensions, paid to everyone monthly at age 70, are mailed from provincial headquarters of the federal treasury in time to reach pensioners before the last banking day of the month.

Officials are hopeful that the new increase, announced last week by Prime Minister Pearson, will be approved by both Houses of Parliament and given royal assent before mid-month in order to complete the administrative machinery for mailing the cheques at the new rate.

HAS PRIORITY

Parliament resumes its session Sept. 30 after a two-month summer recess. The old age pension increase bill is one of the first measures the government intends to introduce.

While officially no firm decision has been made on the nature and extent of the tax increase, cabinet sources indicate an extra one per cent will be charged on personal incomes and corporation profits. At present the tax on personal incomes for the old age security fund is limited to $90 a year for each taxpayer.

No opposition to the increased pension is expected in any party in the Commons.

Rather, there may be some demands that the increase be made even greater than $10.

FIGHT LIKELY

But a political fight is likely, with the Conservatives and other opposition parties claiming victory in exerting pressure on the government to raise the rate earlier than the government originally planned, and the Liberals claiming credit for the increase, now or later.

Some opposition sources expected the pension increase bill would be used by the government as a parliamentary carrot, dangling it in front of the opposition as an enticement to pass other government legislation and give the minority Liberal administration further life insurance.

However, official government spokesmen indicate the government is more concerned about seeing the $10 increase reflected in the October pension cheques than about playing games with the opposition in the parliamentary timetable.

Opinion Shifting in U.K. Against Common Market?

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—There are signs that some pro-European sections of Britain's Conservative Party are beginning to have second thoughts about joining the European Common Market.

A pamphlet published Sunday by the Bow group, an independent association of young liberal-minded Tories, argues that Britain would realize her political destiny and economic potential best by remaining independent of the new power bloc forming in Western Europe.

Train Theft Loot Eludes U.K. Police

By LAWRENCE MALKIN

LONDON (AP)—British police now believe 14 men made up the gang that pulled off the great train robbery and they think they know the names of every one.

But they see little chance of recovering the loot in the near future. It may have been taken out of Britain.

This picture of progress in the hunt for the robbers emerged Saturday from detectives tracing the masterminds of the Aug. 8 holdup of the Glasgow-London mail train.

Only about 10 per cent of the $7,280,000 in loot has been recovered and 13 persons are under arrest. Five are charged with receiving small amounts of the stolen cash; six are accused of actually helping rob the train. They are believed to be small fry in the gang.

Two suspects arrested Sunday were not identified.

All are due in court next Friday for a hearing in which police will have to produce enough evidence against them to make the charges stick.

The bulk of the money is believed to have been taken out of the country a few days after the robbery, probably in a private boat or plane.

It has strong hopes for the future of the Commonwealth as a third Western power with Europe and the United States and adds that for Britain to become side-tracked into the Common Market "is to sacrifice a unique destiny."

SIX AUTHORS

The pamphlet reflects only the views of the six authors, headed by Canadian-born Leonard Beaton, formerly of Fleet Street's top Common Market correspondents and now director of studies at the Institute for Strategic Studies.

A previous Bow group pamphlet, published before the breakdown in Brussels last January in negotiations for Britain's entry into the six-nation Common Market formed by France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg and The Netherlands, argued forcefully for British membership.

Beaton's pamphlet maintains that France deliberately pushed the terms for Britain's entry beyond a reasonable acceptance level and President de Gaulle was forced to use his veto when it seemed Britain was going in at any price.

The authors are worried about the authoritarian tendencies in the Common Market's political structure and stress that the British people would make bad Europeans unless they accepted rule by the bloc's institutions.

Moreover, they say, joining Europe would be a triumph for continentalism at a time when "continents have nothing but division to contribute to the world" and a new spirit of unity is flowing through the West.

Economically, says the pamphlet, Britain can achieve as much or more expansion by maintaining a common wealth free entry and pressing for lower tariffs during the Kennedy round of Geneva Agreement on Tariffs and Trade negotiations.

SPEAKING BEFORE ASSEMBLY

PM to Push Arms for UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Lester B. Pearson returns to the United Nations today with some ideas for improving UN peace-keeping forces, a brainchild that won him the Nobel Peace Prize in 1957.

The Canadian prime minister will attend the General Assembly's 18th annual session opening Tuesday afternoon and will address the assembly Thursday. He is interested in building up a standby force of UN troops to help keep the peace.

The Liberal party leader will be making his first visit to the assembly since he replaced Conservative John Diefenbaker as head of the government last April. But the UN is familiar ground.

Pearson, 66, was president of the assembly in 1952 and also presided when it reconvened following August for action to follow up the armistice of July 27, 1953, that halted the shooting in the Korean War.

He attended the 1956 emergency session on the Suez crisis as external affairs minister, and proposed the UN Emergency Force that was sent into Egypt to follow up the withdrawal of Israeli, British and French invaders. That proposal won him the Nobel prize.

Informed sources in Ottawa said he is expected to offer the United Nations a larger and more flexible Canadian force to stand by for peacekeeping service. They said he probably will broach the idea first in private talks, while urging other countries to offer standby forces.

Overcome by Fumes

WEYBURN, Sask. (CP)—Arnold Reich, 28, of Weyburn, died Saturday after being overcome by fumes in a salt water tank in the Weyburn oil field. It was understood he entered the tank to clear suspected debris from a valve.

Canada has kept a 900-man battalion standing by for UN duty for several years. Denmark, Norway and Sweden decided this summer to earmark a unit of about 3,000 men for standby UN duty.

One Western source said Sunday night the Canadians have not got any reaction to feelers they had put out on the idea. But support for the idea of a larger standby force came from the United States.

In a New York speech, U.S. Assistant State Secretary Harlan Cleveland said that for peace-keeping purposes, the United Nations needed more standby troops, "more of a regular military planning organization" and more negotiators, observers and inspectors. President Kennedy has said he will deal with that general subject when he speaks to the assembly Friday.

Putting the People Second
My wife Pat and I were on the streets of Kamloops today. Visiting door to door, speaking to neighbors and old friends, asking for their support in the election September 30.
I enjoy this kind of visiting, and only wish there was time to stay longer, or visit more often. I think it essential that a man in public service spend as much time as he can with the people he serves. When I am Premier, I'll make it a point to meet often with individual citizens, and the groups they form.
Since the time I was first elected to Parliament, I've met politicians who don't care about the people. I know those politicians are wrong. But even they don't disturb me as much as do the one or two really dangerous men who pretend to care about the people, but don't.
I think Mr. Bennett is one of those men. I've watched him for ten years. I've heard him say he's "for the little man." And time and time again I've seen him do things which hurt the little man. He has scared off industry, and cost us jobs. He has damaged education, and threatened the future of our children. His wild adventures with our money cost every taxpayer.
Time and time again he has sacrificed the public interest to his own appetite for publicity. He has put the people second.
I liked my work in Ottawa. We had achieved great reforms in my Department of Justice. And we were on the doorstep of great programs in my new department. But I couldn't sit by and watch Mr. Bennett use my province as his playground. I have come back to stand up to Mr. Bennett. I will match my positive program against his publicity stunts, my able candidates against his rubber stamp ministers. We will give the people a choice.
Which is why Pat and I are knocking on the doors of Kamloops again.

The Two-Shiver Policy

WITH ONLY TWO WEEKS TO go before polling day, Mr. Bennett has still not produced his heralded manifesto. It appears that even his writers and publishers were caught unprepared by his sudden election call. But the shape of the premier's campaign — on the basis of his northern speeches — is his two-river policy, whereby British Columbia will get millions of kilowatts of electricity years before it can be used, at a cost which has not yet been firmly fixed, to be sold at a price on which there is as yet no agreement.

Mr. Bennett's genius as a politician is that he can make each conglomeration of indefiniteness sound like a definitely established fact; he can blow enough conviction into a bubble to make it look solid.

But economics doesn't really operate on bubbles, attractive though they may be. And the cold hard facts of Peace River costs have yet to be faced. Too many competent engineers disagree with the government's figures on costs, too many still unknown factors confuse the questions of where to use the projected power and how cheaply it can be supplied.

In the face of such very real uncertainties Mr. Bennett's free-wheeling promises of a vast empire in the north should raise a few doubts in the minds of his audiences if not among his ministers. Thoughtful people must be worried about this razzle-dazzle approach to a hydro program. After all, the people of British Columbia are going to have an investment of about $1 billion in the Peace River hydro scheme alone, if it is carried out.

This project would provide for the province's power needs for decades to come. But simultaneously with this production Mr. Bennett will also develop the Columbia River with further millions of kilowatts. This should be the cheaper source, but will British Columbia power users get the Columbia's output or will it have to be exported to the United States, where we enjoy the higher cost Peace power?

To all such questions Mr. Bennett replies: trust me. He describes the election as "above partisanship — it's a vote for yourself, your children and your children's children."

That may well be — the third generation from now could well be still paying for Mr. Bennett's hydro gamble, with somewhat mixed respect for their forebears' powers of judgment.

The only way the voter can stop this juggernaut now is to put enough centre party representatives into the Legislature to force a non-hypnotic, non-northern imperial, non-hysterical assessment of the whole two-river extravaganza, to determine exactly what we need, when we will need it and what it will cost us.

200 Million Bushels

SALE OF 200 MILLION BUSHELS of Canadian wheat to Russia for delivery within one year, an amount equivalent to almost one-third of the current year's crop, along with heavy demand for shipments to Red China and Japan in the Far East and to Britain and Germany in Europe, seems likely to clear out this country's wheat stocks to the minimum level required for domestic consumption.

The Canadian Wheat Board last week was forced to hold up all wheat export orders in order to appraise the supply situation. Further new sales to regular customers were held up and a temporary ban on sales after October 20 was ordered.

The magnitude of the Soviet purchase, worth an estimated $500 million, will be happy news for prairie farmers, but it must be kept in mind that it appears to be a "one-shot" deal. Care must be taken that it does not cut into supplies available for purchase by long-time customers. Nor should it be made the basis of future wheat disposal estimates which would encourage overproduction and a return to the days when storage of surplus wheat was such a costly item in the federal budget.

There can be no doubt that the sale is a feather in the cap of the Liberal government at Ottawa, far outstripping as it does wheat disposal programs of the Diefenbaker government which were credited with holding the Prairies almost exclusively within the Conservative fold in the last general election. If Mr. Pearson should be forced to go to the country in the near future, a heavy swing to the Liberals in the Prairies could be expected. This factor could well be the government's best insurance against the opposition parties pressing too heavily on it during the coming session of Parliament and for several sessions beyond.

Into a New Era

A RECORD NUMBER OF STUDENTS began the first academic year of the University of Victoria today. Their numbers constitute at once a confirmation of the need which the fine new buildings of the institution will fill, and a clear warning that much more will have to be done to accommodate the rapidly increasing student population in days to come.

It is a thrilling experience to attend a university whose growth can be seen and heard on every hand in the work of builders on the site. Many now beginning their university careers will remember all their lives that they were foundation members, so to speak, of the institution whose degree they will win—the first freshmen in the first year of the former College's existence as a chartered university. There is a stimulus at Gordon Head which will be felt by all the students and to which they should respond.

One large question mark still stands over the new university—the appointment of a president. Until this important office is filled much of the future character and course of the institution must remain unknown. This is a crucial point in the university's history—it emerges now into a new phase and it cannot proceed very far with its leadership in "caretaker" hands, capable as these may be.

One asset of many enjoyed by the university is its close association with the Greater Victoria community. Many of our people have attended the College, many have families who will become students of the future, many have contributed generously to the finances of the new venture. There is therefore a very real sense of familiarity, of proprietorship, of pride in this institution that bears the city's name. Much of the community's future will be built around the university, and vice versa. They enter now upon a path which promises great things for both.

Common Market, Common Problem

AFTER FIVE YEARS OF rapid economic growth, the European Common Market appears to be heading into its first balance-of-payments difficulty—a problem which is plaguing nearly every major industrial country in the free world.

A recent study by the executive commission of the European Economic Community indicates that the surplus of exports over imports which has been enjoyed as a group by the six ECM countries is narrowing rapidly. In 1961, the commission reported, the ECM had a trade surplus of $3 billion but this is expected to be down to less than $500 million by the end of this year.

An important factor in the lower trade surplus has been rising costs of Common Market products, making them less competitive in foreign markets. At the same time increased prosperity has led to a greater demand for imported goods.

But the greatest threat to the ECM position is the same as that facing Canada—namely, the difficulties which the United States is facing with its balance-of-payments deficit and President Kennedy's attempt to remedy the situation by restricting American investment abroad. The ECM executive commission study indicated that it expected any deficit in actual trade balance to be more than compensated for by United States investment in Common Market countries. But between the time the study was carried out and the publication of the study, President Kennedy announced his proposed "interest equalization tax" which would change the picture entirely.

The situation presents a double threat to Canada. In the first place, Canada hopes greatly to increase its penetration of the markets of Europe, particularly the market for raw materials in the ECM countries. Additionally, it had been hoped that at least part of the deficiency of development capital which is likely as a result of Washington action could be met by European investment in Canada. However, neither markets nor capital are likely to be found in the ECM if it runs into a balance-of-payments deficit.

"His hammer seems all right, but the sickle's in terrible shape. Better make it 200 million."

An Attack on India Would Stir All Asia

IF YOU RIDE the circuit of the countries living in the grim shadow of Communist China, you are left with a vivid and decidedly disturbing impression. The impression grows from India to Burma, from Burma to Laos, and from Laos to Thailand, that the new responsibility the U.S. has assumed in India is vastly bigger than most people dimly suspect.

Alsop

Ostensibly, the U.S. government is merely committed to give military aid to the Indian government.

There is no treaty, there is no understanding going beyond the aid agreement. But in Asian eyes, the aid agreement alone is quite enough to cast the mantle of American protection over India.

Can't Stand Idly By

As a matter of practical politics, therefore, the U.S. cannot afford to allow a renewed Chinese attack on India to go unopposed. Right there is the new American responsibility which must be discharged unless the U.S. government wants every Asian to be convinced that America is a tissue-paper tiger, just as Peking says.

Judging from the current position in India, even the highest American policymakers have not yet looked squarely at this new responsibility which was assumed with such Galbraithian blitheness. The same mistake seems to have been made that was made in Laos.

A great many thousand words have been written about the mistake in Laos without correctly identifying it. The Americans on the scene are blamed, yet they judged rightly. When there was no one in Laos but the Laotians, the American-backed Laotians defeated the Communist-backed Laotians in every round of the contest. What was done in Laos would have succeeded if Laos had not been invaded.

The real misjudgment was in Washington, where it was assumed that the majestic presence of President Eisenhower in the White House would be enough to deter any border crossing by North Vietnam.

Unprepared

When Laos was invaded, the U.S. government was therefore wholly unprepared to cope with the resulting mess. All it could do was try to localize the mess in Laos. But there will be no way on earth to localize the mess that can be expected if the brisk presence of President Kennedy in the White House is not enough to deter another Chinese invasion of India.

As already reported in this space, the Chinese have made the most complete preparations for a further advance into Indian territory. A huge chunk of India, the Northeast Frontier Agency, has been left without a soldier in it. And no visible preparations have been made to force the Chinese to pay a serious price for a further advance.

In these circumstances, one must pray that the U.S. government is right in thinking, as it apparently does think, that the Chinese advance will not take place after all. But it is at least imprudent not to consider the consequences if the Chinese merely grab the Northeast Frontier Agency and this new grab goes effectively unpunished.

As the area is remote, mountainous, and inhabited only by tribal people, the Indian government seems to hope that the loss, if it occurs, can be shoved under the rug somehow.

But it will not be shoved under the rug. There will be a clamor in India that will be heard from one end of Asia to the other.

Mere clamor will be the least of consequences, moreover. In Burma, to begin with, the government's hesitant current movement toward the road towards alignment with Peking will be speeded to a rapid trot or even a gallop.

In Laos, and even here in Thailand, every friend of the West will grow faint-hearted, and the friends of Chinese Communism will be proportionately emboldened. Worst of all, the Chinese Communists themselves and their satellites in North Viet Nam will also be enormously emboldened. The North Vietnamese, for instance, have already broken the Geneva agreement by leaving several thousand troops in Laos. If further emboldened, they are likely to send in enough additional troops to roll up Laos like a carpet.

General Assault

In plain truth, another Chinese attack on India will now have the effect, because of the new American responsibility, of a general assault on the entire American and Western position in Asia.

That is surely something to think about, as the campaigning season approaches on the Indian frontier — even if the odds against such an attack are every bit as high as the U.S. policymakers reportedly believe.

As Our Readers See It

Changing Skylines

An authority on high rise, who himself built the first 20-storey building in the world (1908, Richmond, Va.) recently addressing the Royal Society of Arts in London, said: "One of our big sources of income is from the people who come to see our old buildings and their beauty; but we are passing through a critical time. We are putting up buildings today which are most inappropriately placed; and about these you should all make your feelings known in the communities in which you live."

Those words of Lord Bossom, FRIBA, famous as an architect on both sides of the Atlantic, should be taken to heart in this old world city of Victoria where vandals are at work and where vigilance is wanting.

The sight of tall buildings breaking through the traditional height barrier, lets us see the result of this break-through and assess its town planning implications. When jets break the sound barrier there are loud explosions and broken windows. There have been comparable disturbing effects with the building break-through of the height barrier. Are we then leaving our three crusading ladies to wage this local fight with the building barons or should we not remind our elected representatives before it is too late, that Greater Victoria is fast losing its old world charm?

CLARENCE S. GOODE, FRSA.

Grant Inequitable

There is one noticeable fact that exists in a democracy which appears to be non-existent in totalitarian or communistically-controlled countries. That is being able to express one's own opinion or views, a very valuable characteristic which might not be really valued until it is lost, so I am going to air my views on our present provincial Social Credit government.

I have never liked or approved of the home-owner's grant which started out as the first $1,000. of the assessment on homes being taken care of by government. Some increase in government support was noticed, but the increase to $50 of home-owner's grant really paid off in increased support and at that election in 1957 about one month ahead of the federal election, our premier went down to Quebec campaigning for Social Credit, offering, if the SC party was elected, to make the grant $100 from government. If that system isn't bribery, please tell me what you would call it?

At the last provincial election the grant was increased to $70 but the idea is still unsound and inequitable, for after all, lots of people are in apartments and suites and tell me what they received.

I hated to see a $5,000 grant of a pension to ex-premier Byron Johnson who didn't ask for it, and didn't need it any more than a dog needs two tails.

I didn't like this exhibition on Okanagan Lake of burning bonds to make believe this government is out of debt and does not owe anything. I just cannot swallow that hook, line and sinker.

I didn't like to see two defeated cabinet ministers at the last election still carried on at the cabinet minister's salary, $1,000 per month.

I don't like to see all that good bottom valley land in the Peace River area taken out of production for all time and so much of it in this day and age when nuclear power can be harnessed for the people's welfare, and B.C. has little enough now of good productive soil.

HARRY WYER.

Volunteer Needed

Is it possible that there may be a retired or otherwise unoccupied lady or gentleman near Tipton Avenue in the Colwood area who would devote about three hours on a Wednesday afternoon bringing in a blind lady to the meetings of the White Cane Club, which are held every Wednesday between 2 and 4 p.m. at the Blind Centre, 1609 Blanshard Street.

You will not be asked, neither will you be expected, to contribute one penny to the funds of the club, and whilst the meetings are in progress you will enjoy the fellowship of many other volunteers who have tea together before taking the blind back to their homes.

If you would care to join in this worthwhile work the fullest details will be gladly given if you will write, phone or call me.

Pensions Were Earned

Really, sirs, I doubt if I have ever seen a more disgraceful cartoon than that of Bierman in your Sept. 10 issue or read a more heartless editorial (Pressure Play on Pensions).

Don't you realize that these old people brought up their families through two wars and a long depression (in England it started in 1921), without benefit of family allowances or unemployment insurance (until fairly recently)? What they saved, if they were able to save, has been debased in value, until they cannot possibly live on it. I, for one, am glad that Mr. Pearson has been "pressured" into doing something humane at last.

As Mr. Colin Cameron, MP, remarked when urging Old Age Pension increase, National Health Plan and Municipal Loan Fund: "I would remind you that without blinking an eye, we are prepared to spend very much more than that on defences, which so far have proved rather dubious."

You say: "What will happen to the price level when all the quick spending pension money starts to bid for purchases?" I'll tell you what it will be spent on, if it isn't grabbed by the landlord—food.

Industry gets many a handout, but do we hear you squawking about that? No! But the government which gives the subsidies and the rebates at the expense of the not-so-privileged does little to protect the latter from shoddy goods and super-prices, and I don't see much criticism in your paper of this modern commercial "grabism."

If prices and values had been kept to a reasonable level, the older generation might have been able to manage, and have been spared being the butt of Bierman's cruel wit, and your editor's lack of understanding.

I'm not an old age pensioner yet.
M. M. C.

WASHINGTON:

Vietnamese Quagmire

By MAX FREEDMAN

NO critic of President Kennedy's policy in South Viet Nam has the slightest chance of winning the argument while the discussion is limited to the Presidential crisis alone. The critics can only win when they broaden the argument to include the larger aims and purposes of American policy.

For President Kennedy rests his case on the plea of necessity. No one needs to tell him of the blunders and brutalities of the Diem regime. He knows all about them—far more indeed than any outside critic can ever hope to know. But he also knows how small is the range of choice open to him in Viet Nam. He is trying to skirt a quagmire and he is aware with painful clarity that he may not succeed.

Every instinct of his political philosophy urges him to denounce President Diem and the ruling group in South Viet Nam. As a Senator, he spoke out in harsh criticism of French policy in Algeria even though the State Department resented his attack.

As a Presidential candidate, he emphasized that the campaign against communism could never be won unless our allies abroad were greater dangers to freedom. As President, he has tried to give the Grand Alliance a greater purpose than mere resistance to Communist expansion. What is he to do now in Viet Nam where all these principles have come into collision with ugly reality?

In one important sense, President Kennedy knows that the talk about President Diem and his squalid family has distorted the real problem. For the trait of corruption and brutality has spread far beyond the confines of one greedy family. It has permeated the entire ruling group.

There is no reformer in sight. The President would risk the odium of direct interference if this kind of pressure would produce a better government in Saigon. He hesitates to use all the weapons at his command because the result may be not reform and improvement but stagnation and defeat.

Foreseeable Disasters

If the United States decided to cut its losses in Viet Nam and began to withdraw, a cloud of disasters would soon cover that land. Freedom would become a fugitive. All hope of personal security would wither.

The Buddhists would feel the scourge of new persecutions. The peasants in the countryside would once again become timidly neutral or would sneak over to the Communist side. The war with the Communist guerrillas might be lost, and someone worse than Diem, or Diem himself in a more savage mood, might take charge of the shattered country.

From these consequences everyone would wish to shrink. If the United States cannot retreat, can it begin to dictate?

Well, it has already done a good deal of dictating, not always with happy results. Those people in Saigon can be trusted neither to keep their promises nor to obey orders. Besides, one mighty push against Diem would make the United States responsible for a puppet regime in Viet Nam—and what a ramshackle and blood-stained regime it would be. Is it any wonder that President Kennedy holds Diem in his grasp but reluctantly declines to tighten the grip with inexorable force?

Victim of Own Policy

So we have once again blundered into a situation where we can neither advance nor retreat with safety and honor. Part of the reason for this predicament is that the United States now finds itself the victim of its own propaganda and policy. For many years it mistakenly believed that President Diem was a hero. Now it is in danger of becoming his captive.

An even more urgent reason is the acceptance by the Kennedy Administration of the principle laid down by the late John Foster Dulles that South Viet Nam is absolutely crucial for the defence of a vast area.

This strategic principle has been at the root of American policy. Under Mr. Dulles it hardened into a dogma. Now it has become something far worse. It has become a slogan that is used as a substitute for thought. Until this doctrine is examined anew in the light of today's facts, there will be neither rest nor progress in Viet Nam.

Warts

In "Today's Health," I found a good discussion on warts by Mr. W. R. Vath, based on an interview with Dr. E. W. Rosenberg of Memphis, who is an expert on this disease. As the doctor said, a wart is due to an infection with a virus. Warts are not cancerous, and they do not turn into cancers. Today, doctors have the impression that all warts, even if they look different, are due to one virus.

Warts can occur anywhere on the skin, but the most common locations are the hands, the fingers and the soles of the feet. Children are most likely to have these little nodules. Adults get them rarely, perhaps because, through the years, they have developed a resistance to the virus. Girls have warts four or five times more frequently than do boys, but why this is no one knows. Also curious is the fact that after the age of 20 warts are equally common in the two sexes.

Warts are not a source of danger. If the victim scratches them, he may spread the infection to other parts of his body. Warts on the face are spread by shaving and by combing the hair. A very few people have thousands of warts. Because one person in the family can give the infection to others, all the people in a warty family ought to be treated at the same time.

Plantar warts are the ones that give the most trouble and pain. This is probably because they are walked on all the time. When nerve endings are squeezed, they cause pain. Plantar warts vary in size from a pinhead to half a dollar. They are most common in teen-agers and in young adults who have unusually moist feet. Physicians used to think that the virus of plantar warts must be spread when people walk barefoot in showers, locker rooms, and on the margins of swimming pools, but a number of studies have failed to support this idea.

Dr. Rosenberg says that it is possible that some of the so-called plantar warts are really only painful calluses. He admits that even with the best of treatment only from 65 to 75 per cent of the plantar warts can be gotten rid of.

Two of the most common ways of getting rid of a wart on the hand are to burn it off with electric sparks, or to freeze it with dry ice or liquid nitrogen. Before using the electric needle, to avoid pain, the doctor will inject under the wart a little procaine.

A pencil of dry ice can be pressed against the wart for from 10 to 60 seconds, and this will cause it to shrink up. With this freezing treatment there is less chance of leaving a scar than with the burning treatment. Warts can be burned off also with a strong acid which can be applied with a little cotton on the end of a toothpick. Corn plasters usually contain salicylic acid which is designed to soften the wart so that it can later be scraped away. A disinfectant called formaldehyde, well diluted with water, is sometimes used on plantar warts. Another drug used is cantharidin (not cantharides). It is made up with acetone and colloid and is applied with a glass rod. The wart is then covered with an air-tight dressing. Usually, within 24 hours, a blister forms and in a week or ten days this dead skin, with the wart, can be cut away. Often more than one treatment is needed. No medicine taken by mouth seems to have any effect on warts.

Warts under the fingernails are the hardest to treat. They are best treated with dry ice. Warts on the private parts can be treated with a podophyllin resin which is painted on. Many warts need no treatment. One can wait until they disappear.

Algeria Follows Path to Socialism

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Newly-elected Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella today prepared to inaugurate a massive nationalization program aimed at complete "socialization" of his country.

Ben Bella became Algeria's first president in Sunday's nation-wide referendum, in which 99.62 per cent of 5,569,883 votes cast backed his leadership. He was the only candidate.

He immediately announced in a radio broadcast, plans to reshuffle the cabinet within the next two days, speed up the achievement of socialism in the country, and nationalize all land.

"The principal enterprises will be nationalized. We shall nationalize all the lands of the settlers and the lands of the traitors as well," Ben Bella said.

The statement echoed his recent announcement as prime minister when he said the state would take over 2,500,000 acres of land left by former French settlers, who fled from the country, and turn them into collective farms.

APPROVE CONSTITUTION

Three 5,000-acre estates were seized by the government in April and turned over to collectives, and Ben Bella said 500 businesses, abandoned by their French owners, would also be nationalized.

His election came a week

Driver Given Licence Back

EDMONTON (CP)—Louis D. Hyndman, president of the Law Society of Alberta, said Friday reinstatement of a suspended driving licence by Highways Minister Gordon Taylor seems "an irresponsible exercise of ministerial discretion."

He was commenting on a case where the highways minister rejected a recommendation by the provincial government's drive review board to suspend for five years the driver's licence of an Edmonton man with 40 driving convictions.

Government sources said Friday that the board last year recommended 800 suspensions in 2,000 cases that came before it. The minister overruled the recommendations in about 16 per cent of the cases, sources added.

Mr. Hyndman said Mr. Taylor should explain his action if he is to continue to enjoy public confidence.

Youth Takes to Gardening

I think the most encouraging aspect to emerge out of the spate of recent flower shows is the well-defined interest of the younger folks in horticulture.

It is perhaps a result of the more specialized training in schools and universities which leads them to study one particular aspect of plant life.

Sooner or later, they will doubtless develop a wider interest in gardening as a whole, at least as it pertains to home life.

The children's part in the garden is also becoming more noticeable again.

I say "again" because 50 years ago the young children of a family were expected to help the parents at the work as soon as they were around on their own feet.

This early introduction to plants usually developed into a lifetime interest at least, and in some cases to a career in a particular phase of horticulture. Children like to imitate what their parents or the older folks are doing, so that little difficulty need be met in getting them to tend a small garden patch of their own.

Patience, and the example of tending the plants are the chief ingredients of success with children in the garden.

Let them help you, and always remember to give encouragement and praise for a job well done.

If, from the beginning, the child hears the proper names of the tools and plants no difficulties arise later as new plants are brought to his notice.

Flower shows offer an opportunity for youngsters of any age to let the results of the garden work be shown in competition with others of their own age group. Even without this stimulus no one can deny the benefits of having their children brought up with a sense of the value of a garden.

Toppled Alouettes Try B.C. Lions at Vancouver

Stephens Revives Argos; Ticats, Bombers Beaten

Times News Services

Montreal Alouettes will be trying to break a three-week deadlock for first place in the Eastern Conference tonight when they invade Vancouver's Empire Stadium to tangle with the British Columbia Lions in a Canadian Football League game.

Light rain and overcast skies are expected to greet the teams, along with a crowd of 25,000. The Lions will be without injured tackle Mike Caic. He will be replaced by Emery Barnes. The Lions rank as pre-game favorites.

The triple tie atop the four-team Eastern Conference followed weekend action which saw the Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who had been leading in the east, both defeated and Ottawa's surprising Rough Riders winning a big one.

The Alouettes, who had won three straight after a dismal start, ran into a driving rain and an impenetrable Edmonton Eskimo defence Saturday in Edmonton and lost 10-1.

The Ticats took it on the chin 15-7 in Toronto Sunday as Alouette castoff Sandy Stephens quarterbacked the Argonauts out of a five-game losing streak. Frank Clair's Rough Riders extended their winning streak to two games Saturday night by dumping the defending Grey Cup champion Blue Bombers 32-26 in Winnipeg.

In the weekend's other game,

Saskatchewan's upstart Roughriders went their second consecutive game without allowing a touchdown and held Calgary Stampeders to a 4-4 tie in Calgary.

The results left the Alouettes with three wins in six starts. The Ticats have a 3-4 record. All three have the Argos, who have won two of seven, breathing down their necks in the tight eastern race.

The Lions, with six wins and a loss, are one point ahead of Calgary in the west and also have one game in hand over the cowboys. Saskatchewan is in third with nine points, one ahead of the stumbling Blue Bombers. Edmonton is last with four points.

Stephens, making his debut after being picked up for the $350 waiver price by Argos, had himself a field day before 30,752 fans at CNE stadium. He threw touchdown strikes to Dick Shatto and Jack Elwell, kicked a convert and scored a single on a wide field goal try. Toronto's other point came on a single by Gerry Wilson.

Stephens Looks Like Steal of Decade

He looked like the steal of the decade Sunday as he completed 14 passes in 22 attempts for 236 yards as the rejuvenated Argos never trailed the disappointing Ticats.

Stephens went all the way at quarterback for Toronto except for a brief spell in the second quarter when Don Fuell came in. Fuell completed one pass in four attempts while Jackie Parker, Toronto's erstwhile quarterback, played halfback and plunker during the game, missing on one pass attempt.

The Argos ran for 103 yards. Hamilton's points came on a second-quarter touchdown pass from Bernie Faloney to Willie Bethea and the ensuing convert by Dave Viti.

Two touchdowns by Ernie White paced Ottawa's victory over Winnipeg. White also picked up 114 yards rushing. Fullback Dave Tellen and quarterback Russ Jackson scored the other touchdowns. Moe Racine accounted for the rest of the Roughriders' points with three converts, a 32-yard field goal and two singles.

George Fleming gave it a big 19-point try for Winnipeg in a losing cause. Fleming, recently acquired from the Argos, scored two touchdowns, kicked three converts, a single and a record-setting 48-yard field goal. Winnipeg's other points came on a touchdown by end Farrell Funtston and a single by Jack Delveaux.

Led by linebacker Al Ecuier, tackle Ray Baillie, defensive end Nat Dye and safety Oscar Kruger, who were in on almost 90 per cent of the tackles, Eskimo defenders held the powerful Montreal offense—which had gained 808 yards in two contests—to 189 yards.

Spurred by the defensive performance, the Eskimo offensive squad, directed by new quarterback Lynn Amedee, came up with a converted touchdown in the second quarter and a field goal in the fourth to provide the margin for Edmonton's second win of the season.

Jim Thomas scored the game's lone touchdown on a short-yardage plunge. Tommy Joe Coffey converted and Bill Mitchell booted a field goal.

Kickers Had a Busy Day at Calgary

Montreal's point came on a single by Gino Berretta.

Saskatchewan and Calgary matched tackle for tackle before 18,000 in Calgary's McMahon Stadium. A total of 30 punts, 18 by the Roughriders' Martin Fahl, were kicked in a battle that featured fierce line play.

Reggie Whitehouse kicked a fourth quarter field goal to go along with Fahl's single and give Roughriders the tie.

The game was strictly a defensive one with heavy rain hampering both passing and running attacks. Saskatchewan earned only four first downs with a total offence of 73 yards while Stampeders picked up 273 yards and 15 first downs.

Calgary quarterback Eagle Day completed seven of 17 pass attempts or 88 yards while Lee Grosscup, a cut from New York Titans of the American League, and veteran Bob Patek connected on only two of 12 throws for 16 yards.

Fat Stephens Chides Larks

TORONTO (CP)—Sandy Stephens, highly-rated quarterback who was fired by Montreal Alouettes for the publicly-stated reason that he was overweight, has shed no poundage since he joined Toronto Argonauts. In fact, he has gained a pound.

Stephens, former Minnesota All-American, commented Hamilton Tiger-Cats in an on his weight after he led the Eastern Football Conference Argos to a 15-7 victory over game Sunday.

SANDY STEPHENS

"I weigh more now than when I left Montreal. I'm up to 221, and that shows how funny the excuse was for letting me go. The Montreal people said I was too fat to be a good leader, but no quarterback leads with his stomach. He does that with his head."

Stephens was suspended and later placed on waivers by Montreal last month after the Alouettes had been ordered by coach Jim Trimble to get his weight down to 210 from 220, but was unable to.

Although the weight problem was given by the Alouettes as reason for Stephens' sacking, there have been persistent reports of a personality clash with Trimble.

Tough Bears Trip Packers

By The Associated Press

Chicago Bears upset their old friends and dear enemies, the Green Bay Packers; Jimmy Brown and Frank Ryan put on an eye-popping exhibition for Cleveland Browns, and dependable Lou Michaels blew two conversions as Pittsburgh had to settle for a tie against Philadelphia Sunday in National Football League opening action.

The Bears, bombed by Green Bay eight straight times, including exhibitions, turned on their tormentors with a crushing defence and stunned the defending league champions 10-3 at Green Bay.

Brown, gunning for the ground-gaining title he lost last season after winning it five times in a row, romped for 162 yards and Ryan passed for 334 in the Browns' 37-14 rout of Washington at Cleveland.

Michaels, who holds the league record for field goals, misfired on two conversion attempts, one with the scored tie, as the favored Steelers had to settle for a 21-21 tie at Philadelphia. One was blocked, the other hit the goalpost.

TITLE BEATS COLTS

Old Y. A. Tittle led a New York comeback that beat the Colts 37-28 at Baltimore and Minnesota came from behind for a 24-20 decision at San Francisco.

In Saturday night games, St. Louis surprised the favored Cowboys 34-7 at Dallas and Detroit rolled over the Rams 23-2 at Los Angeles.

The Bears put together a 32-yard field goal by Bob Jencks, a 68-yard touchdown march and a mighty defence for the upset of Green Bay, unbeaten at home since the opener against the Bears three years ago.

The Bear defence picked off four Bart Starr passes and recovered a fumble. Starr was limited to 11 completions in 22 attempts for 73 yards and the vaunted Packer ground game netted only 77.

Brown averaged 10.8 yards on his 15 carries against Washington, caught three passes for 100 yards, scored on runs of 80 and 10 yards and took an 83-yard pass for another.

Ryan, apparently locking up the quarterback post, completed 21 of 31 passes for 334 yards and two touchdowns and Lou Groza kicked field goals of 42, 24 and 39 yards.

Jittery Dodgers Start Tonight In Series With Surging Cards

By Associated Press

"We've been fortunate in the past. When we play a bad game we turn around and beat someone pretty good," said Los Angeles manager Walt Alston.

"I can't think optimistically or pessimistically about the pennant race. When you meet head on, anything can happen regardless of how good you're going," said Johnny Keane, St. Louis Cardinals manager.

They said it Sunday after the lines were drawn for the beginning of a three-game series tonight at St. Louis between the first-place Dodgers and second-place Cardinals that likely will determine the National League pennant winner.

Alston said it following a 6-1 loss to Philadelphia Phillies in which three passed balls, a couple of mental lapses and the five-hit pitching of the Phillies' Dallas Green left the Dodgers with a mere one-game lead over the surging Cardinals.

Keane said it after Lew Burdette's six-hit pitching and Ray Sadecki's five-hitter gave St. Louis a 3-2 and 5-0 doubleheader sweep of Milwaukee Braves for their 10th straight victory and their 19th in 20 games in a bid to overhaul Los Angeles.

LOSE MORE

The Dodgers, who led by seven games on Aug. 9, have 12 games remaining. The Cardinals, who have lost only one game since Aug. 30, have 10 left. They're all even in victories, with St. Louis two games back in the lost column.

The pitching rotation looks like this for the three-game series:

Los Angeles—Johnny Podres, 13-10; Sandy Koufax, 23-5, and probably Pete Richert, 5-1.

St. Louis—Ernie Broglio, 16-8; Curt Simmons, 15-7, and Bob Gibson, 18-8.

While the Dodgers and Cardinals were in the spotlight Sunday, Cincinnati's John Tostouris three-hit Chicago Cubs 3-1, Willie Mays hit his 35th homer as San Francisco Giants walloped Pittsburgh Pirates 13-5 and Houston Colts took a pair from New York Mets 5-4 and 5-0.

Green, a rarely used right-hander brought his record to 6-4 against the Dodgers, allowing the only run on a homer by Tommy Davis in the fourth inning. The Phillies had already put it out of reach when they got to Don Drysdale, 17-17, for two runs in the first inning on a single by Tony Taylor, his steal of second. Johnny Callison's single, a bunt single by Wes Covington and Roseboro's first passed ball.

ERRORS COSTLY

Two more passed balls by Roseboro, a late throw by Roy Fairly on a sacrifice and Ron Sievers' home run led to the rest of the runs.

Were the errors indicative of the Dodgers' choking? "As soon as someone makes an error or gets beat that's the first thing you guys think about," said Alston. "We do that once in a while. That doesn't mean anything. It hasn't bothered the club."

The Cardinals came off a nine-game winning streak and now have a 10-game string—and in the last eight games, the pitching staff has come up with five shutouts.

Burdette, 9-11, had one until the seventh when Hank Aaron hit his 42nd homer, with one on. Sadecki, 10-8, had an easier job, backed by a 14-hit attack. "We're ready as we ever will be," said Keane.

Newcomers Impress As United in Draw

Knee Injury May Sideline Holroyd; Forwards Light Up 'Promise' Sign

Canadians 1, Victoria United 1
By ERNIE FEEDORUK

Necessity and not desire forces Wallace Milligan to operate in a "lost and found" department. The "finds" it must be reported whether Milligan agrees or not, outnumbered the "losses" during Saturday's shift.

Halfback Harold Holroyd, suffered a torn knee cartilage as Milligan's Victoria United drew, 1-1, with the respected Vancouver Canadians in opening encounter of the 1963-64 Pacific Coast Soccer League season.

Holroyd is not expected to see any more action this season.

That, coming hard on the heels of Geoff Hill's retirement and the departure of all-star Dave Stothard, is not joyous tidings.

Still, Milligan enjoyed some satisfaction. The draw with the defending champions, for example. But there was greater glee after the performance of newcomers to the United lineup.

The likes of rookie fullback Jim Hawthorne, Ray Bauckham and halfback Ollie Owens may fill the gap. One game isn't a fair test, but those three could be the "finds" that may make life easier for Milligan.

The advance word on United was a carryover from last year — "good defence, no offence." That's how it was Saturday. The defence was solid, sure enough, but the attacking department failed to cause any great stir among the disappointing turnout of 766 fans.

The offence was so-so, as expected. Still, the attackers showed some hopeful flashes and, more important, a larger amount of "promise" than had been expected.

STARTS BIG PLAY

Bauckham, in particular, did much to light up that word "promise." The 27-year-old Scot, who joined United at the tag-end of last season, came on the scene early in the second half and started the play that led to Victoria's goal.

His cross-field pass, a manoeuvre of beauty to Henry Vanderhorst, carried the play to Vancouver's goal. In the wild scramble that followed, a hard drive ricocheted off sophomore forward Russ Ball.

Bauckham made other fine plays, and he hustled. He might have emerged as United's hero when, eight minutes after Ball tied the game, he headed a cross from Vanderhorst towards the Canadian goal.

His well-taken try missed by inches.

OWENS WELCOME

Bauckham, however, has to take a back seat to another United newcomer. Owens, 26-year-old ex-Notis Forest professional, was a standout in his Victoria debut.

Owens' worth was sized up best in the dressing room by teammate Ron Jenkins.

"It's a pleasure to play with Ollie," said Jenkins, who played rather well himself. "He's going to do a lot of good around here."

Hawthorne, up from the District League, moved to the full-back spot (alongside Jenkins) when a troublesome knee prevented Len Anderson from getting into strip. Hawthorne played with the polish of a veteran.

All in all, the first one was a reasonably good show.

An old United nemesis, Normie McLeod, broke through Victoria's defence to score Canadians' goal at the 25-minute mark of the first half. The 1-0 lead stood up until the 25 minutes of the second half, when Ball received credit for his goal.

United moves to Vancouver for its next game, playing North Shore in Callister Park on Sunday.

ROYAL PLAYERS HURT

Firemen, Seattle Off on Right Foot

Vancouver Firefighters and Seattle Hungarians scored shutout victories as the curtain parted on the mainland for the new Pacific Coast Soccer League schedule.

Firefighters defeated New Westminster Royals 3-0 at Callister Park. At Seattle, the Hungarians got off on the right foot with a 2-0 decision over Vancouver Wallaces.

Two goals in the first half and another in the second half gave the experienced Firemen their comfortable victory over a Royal City side containing several new, untried young players.

Halfback Bob MacKay headed in a free kick from fullback Terry McKibbin at the 17-minute mark of the second half.

The game was marred by several injuries to New Westminster players as both teams had trouble controlling the ball on the hard ground. Most serious was to leftwinger Bob Scott, who suffered a suspected broken arm when he fell awkwardly in the first few moments of the game.

At Seattle, wing-halves Denny Boyd and Zolty Mako tied up the Wallace forward line as Seattle kept almost complete command over the entire game. Boyd scored the first goal, a rocket-like shot from 35 yards out, while Teddy Budia wrapped up the contest with a 30-yarder that cut by Hans Lee in goal.

Hornets Show Sting; Extend Seattle Squad

Victoria Hornets lost a football game here Sunday but showed they have lots of sting in their attack.

The leagueless juniors made Seattle Cavaliers, an intermediate team, pull out all the stops at Macdonald Park. Seattle rattled across two touchdowns within five minutes in the third quarter to turn a 13-7 deficit into a 19-13 victory.

The teams play a return exhibition at Anacortes Oct. 6.

The game was played under Canadian rules with two exceptions. Unlimited downfield blocking was allowed and each team used its own football. The U.S. pigskin is slightly larger than its Canadian counterpart.

SOFTLY HITS HARD

Ed Softly, a halfback with fluid drive motion, scored two touchdowns for Seattle. Pat Peterson, fullback, scored the third and winning Seattle TD. Jim Stoa picked up a single on a convert.

Neil Worboys and Terry Kochems accounted for Hornets' majors. Barry Neff picked up an extra point, converting Kochems' effort.

Seattle scored first, Softly going over after three minutes. Hornets came back at the 14-minute mark. Worboys reaching pay dirt. Kochems gave Hornets the lead in the second quarter and when Neff split the uprights the Victorians climbed into a 13-7 lead.

Cavaliers probed weak spots in the Victoria defence to score their second and third touchdowns in the third quarter. Softly, running hard, accounted for the first and Peterson the second. Neither convert attempt was good.

TOUGH TACKLING

Hornets tightened the defence in the final quarter, thwarting several Seattle onslaughts with hard tackling deep in their own territory.

Hornets missed two glorious scoring opportunities. Quarterback Dave Hayward's pass into the Seattle end zone near the end of the first half was intercepted. In the third quarter, Hayward slung a 40-yard throw to Jack Heath, who carried to the Seattle 25. But the Hornets couldn't penetrate the determined Seattle defence and finally surrendered the ball on downs at the Seattle 10.

Disqualification Cools Shibuya In Main Event

Kinji Shibuya demonstrated the judo chop on the wrong man.

He popped referee Sandor Kovacs and promptly was disqualified. Dory Funk won the match, main event on Saturday's professional wrestling card at Memorial Arena.

Each wrestler had won a fall before Kinji lost his argument with the referee.

In other matches on the card, watched by 1,096 customers, Gene Kiniski downed Dan Miller, Ron Echison beat Seymour Koenig, Luis Mayo drew with Bob Morse and Sweet Daddy Siki beat Roy McClarty.

TRACK MARK FALLS

Browne, Mulally Enjoy Big Night

Rob Browne captured the 1963 Vancouver Island stock car racing championship, but he had to share Saturday night's racing honors with Lloyd Mulally at Western Speedway.

Browne nosed out Mulally in the 50-lap feature while modified sportsman champion Billy Foster finished third.

But it was Mulally who really warmed the 1,500 customers with his driving during the chilly evening.

Prior to his main-event duel with Browne, Mulally, of Nanaimo cracked the Speedway track record in the time trials, captured the trophy dash and the second heat.

Mulally came within a whisker of hitting the magical 20-second mark around the oval. His time of 20:05 wiped out Dave Brown's record of 20:36.

Complete results:

Trophy dash: 1. Lloyd Mulally; 2. Bob Browne; 3. Dave Brown. First heat: 1. Bill Boden; 2. Bill Smith; 3. Jim Berry. Second heat: 1. Lloyd Mulally; 2. Brian Wilson; 3. Dave Brown. Third heat: 1. Billy Foster; 2. Tom Barclay; 3. Harold Spurgeon. Fourth heat: 1. Billy Foster; 2. Tom Barclay; 3. Gordon Albers. Fifth heat: 1. Gordon Albers; 2. John Cowan; 3. Wally Lam. Main event: 1. Rob Browne; 2. Lloyd Mulally; 3. Billy Foster.

E. K. Brownridge, President, American Motors (Canada) Limited

We don't play the car name or size game

we offer you three distinct cars—the economical American, the popular Classic and the luxurious Ambassador

What's the car name or size game? It's a pastime the automotive industry has indulged in during the past 10 years or so.

How do you play it? Produce every possible car size from big to small, then make up names for them and introduce as many as you can in your next line-up. Actually, 47 new car names have appeared on the scene in the past decade. They were big, medium, compact, small and many other sizes in between.

How did it all begin? Back in the mid-Fifties cars had gone about as far as they could go with fantastic fins and frills. They were big, both from the point of view of cost and unwieldy size. Naturally enough, the public finally reacted against them. But what happened? Did the situation improve?

No, confusion ran rampant. New cars came out in splendid variety; all shapes and sizes.

Except for Rambler. Right back when it all started, the people at Rambler decided to take a stand: to build only sensibly-sized cars, cars the public really wanted.

Our decision stemmed directly from our philosophy toward the building of cars. It was to provide what we call "maximum usefulness to the user." That's what we've been concentrating on for the past 10 years, rather than making senseless, floundering changes. Each year we have introduced major improvements and engineering advances into our cars. We are bent on making better cars, determined to give the Canadian public what it wants: a complete line of compact cars.

What is a compact car? To us the word means only one thing and we invented the term. A compact is a sensibly-sized car. It is not a small car. The word compact simply means that we put space on the inside, where it counts, not on the outside where it gets in the way. It ties in with Rambler's policy of providing "maximum usefulness to the user." It means that we put the most value into every one of our cars, from the very economical to the very luxurious.

We make three different and distinct cars: the economical AMERICAN, the popular CLASSIC and the luxurious AMBASSADOR V8. Each one is a Rambler and in its own way each one is a compact.

In the Rambler American you get exceptional economy in both initial cost and operation. It's still the lowest-priced Canadian-built car. The popular Classic gives your family the extra room it needs at a price your budget can match. It also gives you the choice of an economical 6 or the power of a V8 engine. The Ambassador V8 brings you a remarkable combination of V8 performance and genuine interior luxury. Each Rambler is marked by quality, through and through.

Rambler quality is the result of our emphasis on features. Our rustproofing process, for example, is exclusive and makes Rambler the world's most completely rustproofed car. We also provide no-nonsense, easy-to-read warranties that are second to none in their coverage of the very items that could be most costly to you.

I could go on at length about the many cost-saving features you'll find built into every Rambler. The point is that we put as much value into our cars as we possibly can. This is the firm policy we have adopted and it's what has given us the success we enjoy today.

With this in mind, we will never descend to playing games. Anyway, we're too busy building cars. The new 1964 Ramblers will be at your Dealer's on October the 3rd.

W. Coast Road Job 'Must'

Reconstruction of the west coast road from Sooke to Port Renfrew is essential, New Democratic Party candidate Geoffrey Mitchell said Saturday. The Esquimalt candidate told a meeting of 24 people at Sooke Community Hall that he would, if elected, do his best to ensure the road is rebuilt and properly maintained.

He said it is a necessity for Port Renfrew residents and would open up industrial and recreational sites. "An NDP government is pledged to a planned secondary and arterial highway program in which every one of your tax dollars will give the best permanent value," Mr. Mitchell said.

At a meeting on Friday in his campaign headquarters, Mr. Mitchell pledged the NDP would never force the municipalities to take over the B.C. Hydro bus services.

At the expiration of current franchises it would be left to municipalities if they wanted the buses, they could have them; if they didn't the government would continue to operate them.

The NDP would ensure that the provincial government assumes responsibility for services to people—education and hospitals—while the municipalities assume responsibility for services to land and property, Mr. Mitchell said.

Burnside PTA will hold its first meeting tonight at 8 in the school auditorium. Parents will make an "open house" tour of classrooms. Elected officers for 1963-64 include Mrs. S. Cross, president; Mrs. J. A. Franklin, secretary, and Mrs. B. Sage, treasurer.

Those doughty heroines of many a north Pacific drama, namely SUDSONE and SUDS-TWO, are ready for deep-sea duty again after a long rest at Island Tug and Barge Ltd. docks in the upper harbor.

Accustomed as the two ladies are to taking the spotlight in a wave-lashed salvage or rescue effort, their work this winter will be more prosaic, but none the less important.

Sudbury I, the converted corvette who still wears SS in front of her name, will see duty on a new ITB operation—a three-month contract to haul pulp between Woodfibre, B.C., and Hoquiam, Wash.

Reason is the recent explosion at Woodfibre which crippled a plant where impurities are taken out of the pulp. This process will be carried out at Hoquiam, and the purified material returned.

Six former oil tankers, since converted to self-dumping log barges, will carry the liquid cargo.

Tugs Island Sovereign and Island Monarch will start the service, with SUDSONE stepping in when the weather gets tough.

Sudbury II also has a "milk run" mapped out for her, but one that can be skimmied of all the cream come December gales in open ocean from Cape Flattery south.

The diesel-powered deep-sea towboat will take over from slightly smaller tugs on the Texada Island limerock run to the Portland Cement Co. near Portland, Ore.

An ordinary-sounding run—unless you've been in a winter gale with a huge scow at the end of your line and a schedule to keep.

"Dock Watcher" writes to ask what parking charges are paid by deep-sea ships at the Ogden Point docks.

Charges are based on the overall length of the ship, at 10 cents per foot for each eight-hour period, or any portion thereof—which, of course, means 30 cents per foot per 24 hours.

Enough to make the ship's agent's arm tired. Not to mention the owners.

Well-salted traditionalists who deplore the current tendency toward sailings, launchings, even christenings and commissionings on Friday—even Friday the 13th—may take heart from the citizens of Fremantle, Australia.

A local import from Down Under is expecting his fiancée to join him. She was supposed to have sailed last Friday the 13th, aboard the P & O Liner Arcadia.

But she hadn't reckoned with Fremantle. Nobody, but nobody, puts out from that port on an unlucky day. The ship was held until one minute after midnight.

Making everyone happy including, I suspect, the longshoremen who flaming well made sure of some more overtime.

Cubans Hold Four After Plane Downed

HAVANA (AP)—The Cuban government announced Sunday it is holding a West Point-trained Costa Rican, his American wife and two Nicaraguans after forcing their plane down in Southeast Cuba with anti-aircraft fire.

At the same time, it said a Cuban described as a U.S. agent especially trained by the Pentagon has been executed by a firing squad.

The newspaper El Mundo said Teodoro Picado Jr., son of a former Costa Rican president, was being questioned to determine whether he had any part in recent counter-revolutionary raids on Cuba.

The paper said authorities had determined Picado, an associate of the Somoza family of Nicaragua, was an arms supplier for anti-Castro Cubans in Central America.

Picado's wife is the former

Susan Moir of Glendale, Calif. El Mundo said Picado was linked with Gen. Anastasio Somoza Jr., chief of the Nicaraguan National Guard and brother of former Nicaraguan President Luis Somoza. It said the plane was owned by Gen. Somoza.

The newspaper said the plane was forced down after flying low over the Cuban coastal city of Cienfuegos, 150 miles southeast of Havana, last Wednesday. The paper made no mention of the plane being hit.

It quoted Picado as saying he had been forced to fly the twin-engine Aero Commander over Cuba in order to avoid a storm on a flight from British Honduras to Miami, Fla.

Others aboard the plane were identified as Emilia Bonilla, secretary to Gen. Somoza, and Ramon Jacinto Herrera Cordoba.

University Comes Alive With First Classes in Session Today

HEAVYLADEN with a small fortune in texts, freshman Victoria University student Jo-anne La Porte, 17, of Dawson Creek, staggered away from campus bookstore as first fall classes went in today. Registered in arts, Jo-anne wants to take honors in mathematics, "my best subject last year."

FRESH FROSH FACES, some topped by the required plastic bowler designating them as fledgling undergraduates, beamed out at empty lecture stand today as they waited instruction in chemistry 101. Professor was detained in throes of opening day administration. But smooth sailing is expected after opening storm subsides.

FROSTY MESSAGE inscribed on pavement outside Young Building said "Frosh are not welcome," the waggish message of senior students as lectures started today. It was the only sign of traditional unrest as more than 2,000 students jammed halls. Biggest problem was the registrar's as scores of students lined up to get timetables amended.

ELECTION NOTEBOOK

By FRANK RUTTER

'Political ... But Definitely'

Conservative leader Davie Fulton is coming to Victoria Tuesday to deliver a speech to the Kiwanis Club.

"Definitely non-political," said a Kiwanis official. "Kiwanis isn't in the habit of getting into politics."

Well, here's news for Kiwanis: the speech will be "definitely political." In fact Mr. Fulton is expected to make another surprising statement like his stop-the-peace speech in Prince George, only on another issue this time. Tory officials say it will be the same type of stand—opposition to an apparently popular policy.

Fact is, the engagement was made months before the election and was announced, and at that time, the speech probably would have been non-political. But how can Davie resist now?

Premier Bennett gathered public relations men like moss on his campaign safari to B.C.'s north last week.

When his train left Vancouver he was accompanied by two of the "image makers," Al Williamson and Dan Ekman, his former executive assistant who now works for oil tycoon Frank McMahon.

Two days later at Dawson Creek he was joined by a third, Bill Clancey. On Friday at Fort St. John the force was strengthened by Lloyd Turner, who also works for McMahon. Latest word is that number five is being recruited from Eastern Canada.

Comox Liberal candidate David Elix has set up camp.

Prowler Pulls Bed Covers Off Woman

A prowler walked into a city woman's bedroom early Sunday and was pulling the covers off her bed when she awakened.

Mrs. Hilda Jones, 417 Parry, asleep in the room with her 12-year-old daughter, screamed and the intruder ran. Police found he had gained entry through an unlocked rear door. The incident occurred shortly after 5 a.m.

Later Mrs. Jones discovered the intruder had broken open three rabbit pens and let loose six rabbits.

campaign headquarters in his car minister who retired here in 1960.

He's figured out he's got 300 hours to cover 250 road miles before voting day. The Sacred campaign song Roll on Social Credit Roll on, of dubious status on the hit parade, rolls on for nine repetitious verses.

It contains such great lines as "Protect all our farmers"... Return Social Credit for all that is right... They work for the people with far-reaching sight."

A TV debate by the four major party leaders has fallen through because they couldn't agree on a time. Instead the CBC will carry a special four-part series on the 7 o'clock Show called The Men and the Issues with interviews by newspapermen. It starts Tuesday night.

There are between 700 and 1,000 Indians in Saanich riding and, according to NDP candidate John Windsor, who went campaigning on the reserves Saturday, they're showing great interest in the election.

Mr. Windsor has enlisted the support of a former Saskatchewan CCF cabinet minister, John H. Sturdy, onetime health

Local meetings tonight: Victoria Liberals at 8 p.m. in Norway House; Victoria Socialists, also 8, in James Bay Community Hall; Oak Bay Socialists, 8, Willows School.

Murder Victim's Old Classmates Being Interviewed

City detectives are interviewing former classmates of George Down during his last year at Central Junior High School in an attempt to track down his murderer.

Police are asking all the boys who were in Down's class about each other. They are inquiring about any rows at school in which Down was involved. They want to know who his friends were.

The 17-year delivery boy left school late last year. He was found murdered in the Hudson's Bay Parkade early on the morning of Aug. 30.

It is more than two weeks now since Down was killed and Detective Inspector Charles Webb admitted that police still have no clue to his murderer.

ROUTES SURVEYED

Hovercraft 'Promising' For Nanaimo-Mainland

A Nanaimo-Vancouver route for hovercraft is the most promising B.C. service at the present time, a representative of the manufacturer said here today.

J. Max George is in B.C. making a survey of potential routes for Westland Aircraft Ltd., British firm which has developed air-cushioned vessels with speeds up to 74 miles per hour.

Mr. George said there would be no trouble establishing a fast hovercraft service from downtown Nanaimo to downtown Vancouver. A service between Vancouver and Victoria would need more study, he said, with a possible Island terminal in the Cordova Bay area to cut off the long haul to the Inner Harbor.

Mr. George's visit here from Britain follows that last month of Stuart J. Miller, representative in North America for Westland.

Mr. George will spend today exploring entry routes to the city, and is to see Monty Aldous, manager of the government ferry system, Tuesday.

He will also visit Nanaimo before returning to the mainland.

He came from Britain a month ago and expects to be in Canada for another three months examining possible routes and applications for hovercraft, over not only sea but lakes, land, snow and ice.

The hovercraft is a vessel which literally floats on a cushion of air and eliminates resistance encountered by ordinary displacement craft.

Mother Takes Child From School Despite Arrival of Textbooks

A Saanich mother who had threatened to remove her daughter from school unless she was given textbooks, did so this morning—even though the books had been supplied.

Mrs. Leslie Bayliss, 370 Ker, escorted her 14-year-old daughter Vanessa from Tillicum-Hampton School at about 10:15.

School principal R. H. Jones told The Times the textbooks were waiting for the girl when she went to school this morning, but that the mother took her out anyway.

"We parted on good terms," said Mr. Jones. "I'm pretty sure she'll be back."

NO COMMENT

Mrs. Bayliss would not talk to reporters this morning, before or after she went in to retrieve her daughter.

She talked with the principal for about 20 minutes before she and her daughter emerged from the school. On seeing cameramen, they covered their faces with a purse and a book. Later they posed, but still would not talk.

Mrs. Bayliss said Friday she had phoned Education Minister Peterson about the lack of textbooks, but he was out of town.

She then phoned deputy minister Dr. J. F. K. English, and "he told me it was none of his concern."

FEW WITHOUT

Only a few pupils are still without books, "largely because of the influx of unexpected pupils," says district school superintendent John Gough.

An anonymous complaint from an Esquimalt woman that no Grade 8 students at Esquimalt Junior High had textbooks was denied today by principal Don Smith.

"All Grade 8 students have had all their textbooks since Sept. 5," he said.

He said the woman may be confused because sets of textbooks are not issued to occupational students.

The woman's daughter is believed to be an occupational student.

NOT ISSUED

"They get books for use in class, and they may sometimes take them home, but they are not issued sets of books."

"The books they use are supplied by the school board, and they have been in the school since last year," said Mr. Oliver.

He said he had no idea who the complaining woman was, having no other notice of the complaint than an anonymous report in a newspaper.

"I haven't had a single phone call from a parent about textbooks since school opened," he said.

Pac Pete To Sell Gas Here

Pacific Petroleum Ltd., western Canada's petroleum "wunderkind," plans to enter the retail gasoline field at three sites in Victoria, it was revealed today.

Vancouver district sales manager R. M. Latta wrote City Hall that he wished to apply for necessary zoning to establish service stations at company-owned sites.

The locations are at the southeast corner of Hillside and Blanshard, northwest corner of Oak Bay and Richmond Avenues, and the southwest corner of Cook and View Streets.

Only the last site is zoned for a service station at present.

Danish Prince To Visit Island

Prince Axel of Denmark will visit properties of the East Asiatic Company on the west coast of Vancouver Island, it was learned today.

There is no indication he will visit Victoria at present.

The prince, who is chairman of the board of the East Asiatic Co., will arrive in Vancouver Sept. 26 for a five-day visit to B.C.

50 Stitches Given Man Hit by Bottle

A 26-year-old Edmonton man required more than 50 stitches to close wounds he received from a broken bottle in a fight on Menzies Street Saturday night.

But Percy Deshane, of 9835 102nd Street, Edmonton, refused to tell police who attacked him.

He was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital overnight, but in the morning he got up, dressed himself and left without saying a word to anyone.

Police were called to Embassy Court, 520 Menzies, shortly before midnight Saturday. They found Deshane with his throat cut, a gash on his chest, a cut on his forearm and a deep laceration on his leg.

With Deshane was Paul Webster, 644 Ian Avenue, Port Alberni. Webster told police he and Deshane had been in a fight with another man but he wouldn't give the other man's name.

A broken bottle with blood on it was found in the street by police. Nearby was a car with Ontario plates. It had bloodstains inside and out.

DIES HERE AT 84

Feasting to Follow Rites For Famed Carver's Widow

Mrs. Sarah Constance Abayah Martin, 84, a descendant of Kwakiutl chiefs and widow of great totem carver Mungo Martin, died Sunday in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Many of her 122 descendants will gather with friends Tuesday night for a special chapel service and traditional "keening," as they did for Chief Mungo exactly 13 months ago.

Then she will be taken in a motor cavalcade to Alert Bay for burial next to her husband, whose name is known to the world over for totemic carving, one of the greatest cultural contributions of the native coast dwellers.

"She was one of the cleverest women I knew," said a close friend of the family. Like her husband, she had a creative talent and wove many blankets.

She was alert and still able to weave when she became ill three months ago today. Her last blanket was then under way and remains half finished. It will be treasured by one of her grandsons.

FEASTING

Chapel service by Rev. J. A. Roberts at Sands funeral home will be at 7 p.m., followed by feasting and traditional dancing for the family and close friends.

This will be done at the long house, among the totem poles carved by Mungo, at Thunderbird Park.

The two-day trip up the east coast of Vancouver Island to Alert Bay, in the Kwakiutl country, will be followed by another service at the Anglican Church there.

Mrs. Martin, of 102 Niagara, had lived the last 12 years in Victoria and prior to that was resident on the northeast coast of Vancouver Island, where most of her family remains. She was born on Turnour Island at the head of Queen Charlotte Strait.

About 30 relatives live in the Greater Victoria area, another 20 on the Lower Mainland.

Among the immediate relatives she leaves are: Daughters Mrs. Gracie Nelson, 348 Michigan, and Mrs. Agnes Cranmer, Alert Bay; a son Thomas Harris Hunt, 1239 Park Terrace; brothers Tom and Peter Smith, Turnour Island; a sister, Mrs. Margaret Cook, Vancouver; and numerous grandchildren, great-grandchildren, nieces and nephews.

Topics of the Day

Two separate accidents involving motorcycles sent two persons to hospital Saturday.

Stephen Cooley, 1960 Argyle, received cuts on his head and an ankle when his cycle was in collision with a car driven by Hans Waelti, 2994 Westdowne, at Bay and Quadra. He is reported in good condition today at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Mrs. Evelyn Elton of Cawston, B.C., was treated for bruises and shock at St. Joseph's Hospital after being involved in an accident at Wharf and Johnson.

She was on a motorcycle driven by Paul Swanson of Spokane that was in collision with a car driven by Robert Edwards, Scott Apartments.

Fire gutted the basement of the home of F. G. T. Simmons at 2184 Epworth Saturday.

Oak Bay firemen labored for an hour and a half to extinguish the blaze which destroyed the interior of the basement and did some slight damage upstairs as well.

Total damage was estimated at about $5,000. Firemen believe the fire was caused by an overloaded electrical circuit.

A man injured in a mining accident at Cowichan Copper Mine early Sunday is reported to be in fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Emergency Power Set For Jubilee

Emergency generators are ready for service now at Royal Jubilee Hospital, administrator George Masters said today.

Two diesel-powered generators with a total output of 250 horsepower passed working tests in recent days.

They are designed to provide emergency power for most of the hospital's services and wards in the event of a B.C. Hydro power failure.

Any power break will throw the first generator into automatic operation to serve the operating rooms, maternity ward, blood bank refrigeration and also light the hallways.

The second unit can then be operated manually to send power to any selected area or facility—such as elevators—as needed.

The second unit also acts as a standby when the other is undergoing maintenance. The emergency system was designed to take additional generators as needed for future expansions.

Parents demanding a sidewalk along McKenzie Ave. near Sacred Heart School plan to attend a Saanich public works committee meeting tonight in force.

A six-year-old girl, Elda Gaffi, 670 Canterbury, was knocked down in front of the school Friday, and is still in hospital.

Meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. in the municipal council chamber.

Permission to hold a "log-saw" at Clover Point Saturday was requested by the Alma Mater Society of the University of Victoria today.

The group asked City Hall for permission to repeat its 1962 project of cutting up driftwood at the point for sale as firewood to the public. Proceeds go to charity.

Writers benefit from fraternizing with each other, says Yvonne H. Stevenson, a Victoria delegate to the recent Pacific Northwest International Writers' Conference in Seattle.

Miss Stevenson was guest speaker in an article workshop at the conference, and spoke of it during a panel discussion of the Victoria branch, Canadian Authors' Association, in the Douglas Building cafeteria on Thursday.

The panel was moderated by L. S. Mitchell of Victoria.

Edith M. Rive, who also participated, described the fiction sessions at the Seattle conference. Clara Hill Maunsel, another panel member, read Theodore Roethke's poem "The Rose."

Aileen Downie entertained with an account of her recent visit to the Stratford Festival.

The annual installation of officers of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society will be held in Holyrood House at 8 p.m. on Thursday. The meeting will be followed by a social evening.

Hammers echoed through Esquimalt Sports Centre this morning sounding the final setting up operations for Victoria Kinsmen Fall Fair which runs all this week.

The fair opened this afternoon at 3 but official opening ceremonies will be performed tonight at 8 by deputy minister of trade and commerce T. L. Sturgess.

Victoria gained another airport today as the department of transport licensed the heliport on the roof of the curling rink.

This is for the fair's featured ride, a 15-minute helicopter trip over the city.

DEAR ABBY . . .

She's Burned Up!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am the young, attractive neighbor lady about whom Worried Wife wrote. I am trying to get a sun tan, so naturally when the sun is hottest, I take sun baths in my back yard. Now, everyone knows that if you sprinkle your lawn in the hot sun you'll burn up your grass. My neighbor goes out and sprinkles his back yard when the sun is blazing just to get his eyes full of me while I'm out there taking my sun bath. I assure you, his wife has nothing to worry about as I don't appreciate an audience. Can you suggest a way to get my message across to him?

SUN BATHER.

DEAR SUN BATHER: Call your neighbor's attention to the fact that his lawn is getting brown right along with you.

And suggest that he hold off the sprinkling until both you and the sun have disappeared.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my 73-year-old father was taken to the hospital with a ruptured gall bladder which required emergency surgery. As they were wheeling him into the operating room, his last request to mother was, "Don't bother to save the newspapers for me—just tear out the pages with Dear Abby and I'll read them when I get home." We are happy to report that he is well on the road to recovery now and almost all caught up with his readings. It is our belief that your column somehow tends to create a measure of confidence in the older generation.

Very truly yours, R.C.T.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

In Order to Diet Effectively, Discipline Must Be the Rule

Over and over again women discipline themselves and lose weight. They are exhilarated and happy about it and feel 10 years younger. If they had a lot of weight to lose they probably denied themselves many items of food which they were particularly fond of, but which caused them to be fat in the first place.

They have every right to feel that they can enjoy some of the things they left off when reducing. They can have a dessert now and then. They can add a bit of gravy to their meat. They can have larger servings. They can enjoy a cream sauce once in a while or an exotic, but high calorie dish. They can eat a candy bar or have two buttered rolls at dinner every so often, or have french fries instead of a baked potato.

However, a reducing diet should do something more than cause a loss of weight. It should establish new, lifetime habits in eating. If it didn't, then it is only a question of time before the woman returns to her old habits and finds herself with new overweight pounds. Fresh fruit rather than dessert should be the habit, and dessert the exception. Skim or powdered fat-free milk should be the habit, and whole milk the exception. Lean meat rather than fat meat should be the habit rather than the exception. Broiled or baked foods should be the habit, and fried foods the exception.

exception. One serving rather than two should be the habit instead of the exception. In between meal snacks should definitely be unusual.

It's the day by day usual habit which makes the difference. You can afford food binges once in a while, but the woman who has had a weight problem and lost pounds only to gain them back again is like an alcoholic in that any breakover may cause her to go haywire.

Of course this is not necessary. I am only reminding you to go slowly! Your bathroom scale is your best friend. When it shows that you are beginning to gain, leave off the extras until it smiles at you again. Don't wait for the first 10 extra pounds. Take care of the first five!

If you would like to have my calorie chart send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Anne Sheppard Wed in Maple Bay Ceremony

White gladioli highlighted by tangerine dahlias set the decor in Arbutus Chapel at Camp Imadene at Maple Bay, for the recent marriage of Anne Mitchell Sheppard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Huron C. Sheppard of Duncan, to Richard Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mitchell of Bloomfield, New Jersey. The bride's father officiated at the afternoon ceremony.

Soloist, Mrs. James Fullerton, aunt of the bride, was accompanied by Miss Evelyn Anderson, Seattle, Wash. Given in marriage by her uncle, James Fullerton, the bride wore a slipper length gown of faille taffeta with pearl encrusted appliques, featuring sweetheart neckline and lily point sleeves. Gentle fullness at back of skirt created a bustle effect. A double crown of pearls and sequins held a fingertip veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and gladioli.

Attendants, Miss Leon'a Brammell, Duncan, and Miss Jean Sheppard, Vancouver, cousins of the bride, were identically gowned in slipper length dresses of chymospun tangerine taffeta with whimsies and shoes on tone. They carried tangerine nosegays.

Peter Sheppard, brother of the bride, was best man and ushers were Neil McKinnon and Roy Hawes.

Harvey Lowe, Duncan, proposed the toast at a reception held in the Camp Imadene dining room. Miss Grace Jones, Duncan, and Mrs. James Fullerton sang at the reception. Telegrams were received from the Congo, Nigeria, United States, Britain, Bermuda and various parts of Canada.

Before travelling to Shawinigan Lake for their honeymoon, the bride donned a gold knit suit with dark brown accessories and light gold corsage.

The couple will reside temporarily in New Jersey before returning to Nigeria, where they are employed in nursing and missionary work.

Wearing an original gown of pink champagne silk taffeta, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. The round-backed neckline featured a yoke from which a box-pleated panel fell in soft folds to the hemline of the bell-shaped street-length gown. Bodice was fitted with scoop neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. A large pink champagne taffeta rose centred the bouffant veil. She carried a fan-shaped bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and white hyacinths.

Ann Sweeney, Ottawa, wore a gown of rose peau de soie with shoes on tone. A bouffant headpiece of rose tulle was centred by a rose satin chrysanthemum. Dr. Peter Inward, Boston, Mass., was best man. Dr. Larry Calvert, Ottawa, proposed the toast at a luncheon reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Featonby, 80 Driveway, Ottawa. Three-tier wedding cake, decorated with pink sweetheart roses and white hyacinths, centred the lace-covered bride's table.

First news of a vital scientific triumph that will bring untold beauty and happiness to millions of anxious women.

2nd Debut for Mother

Since She May Now Lift Her Face Out of Lines and Wrinkles at Home

The "Wiesbaden Discovery" has now come to Canada and is available to you—you'll make heads turn your way once more and again enjoy the rapt attentions that were bestowed upon you at the time of your first debut. You will look somewhat as though your face has been suddenly given a fresher, younger looking smoothness, which restores the extra and all-important lost impact to the beauty your facial features have always had. Medical and other scientific journals have sung their praise of this valuable scientific work (done in Wiesbaden, Germany) which now brings you a real second debut with all the excitement of being newly admired—actually stared at.

How 2nd DEBUT works quickly

The active ingredient that enables 2nd DEBUT to give a more youthful facial skin in such a short time is a heretofore unknown and living part of human skin. Our scientists designate it as CEF 600. Placed on the face, this natural ingredient immediately penetrates the outer skin layer and carries into it millions of tiny loads of pure water that skin has lost during the natural aging process. This water finds its way under lines and wrinkles and as it accumulates there, it pushes these unwanted indentations upward. The face and neck look younger again. The result is actually starting to the user herself.

This ingredient (CEF 600), extracted from real tissue, is compounded into a smooth-flowing and delightful-to-use substance that is neither cream nor lotion. It is used nightly, and daily under-make-up, so that during 24 hours of the day it is carrying water into the skin to get you ready for your 2nd DEBUT.

We Have a Limited Supply—Because of the slowness and care with which CEF 600 is extracted, only a limited supply of 2nd DEBUT is available. The large 4 ounce size of 2nd DEBUT is $3.75. But so that no women needing 2nd DEBUT need be without it, you can get a one ounce clinical vial (a full 2 week supply) priced at $1.25

The better drug and department stores should now have a limited supply

Firm Studies Cut in Pension

TRAIL, (CP) — A $10 cut in retired employee pensions is being considered by Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. in view of the pending pension in the federal old age pension, assistant general manager J. H. Salter said Sunday. He said the proposed cut would affect only those retired employees 70 years and older who are drawing old age pensions. The federal pension is to be increased to $75 from $65 a month by legislation which goes to Parliament next month. Officials of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (Ind.) plan to send a delegation to Ottawa to protest the cut. Mr. Salter said the company had the right to cut its employee pension contributions under a 30-year-old provision in the plan's bylaws.

Freed In Killing

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP) — A grand jury decided Friday there was insufficient grounds in indicting Floyd Simpson in the death of a Baltimore, Md., "freedom walker." Simpson, a storekeeper in nearby Fort Payne, Ala., had been charged in the ambush slaying of William Moore, who was walking from Chattanooga, Tenn., to Jackson, Miss., to talk to Governor Ross Barnett about racial moderation.

Eight Die In Sahara

ALGIERS (AP) — Eight Algerians who tried to drive across the Sahara with a small water supply were found dead Friday by a rescue column between the oases of In-Salah and El Golea. Officials said the Algerians neglected to advise authorities of their departure, apparently got lost in a sand storm and ran out of gasoline.

PROOF of financial solvency was demanded from Charles Chaplin by a French magistrate before permitting legal action by Chaplin against a French medical clinic. Chaplin claims the Robert Ward clinic said in a pamphlet that he had a "cell extract" had enabled him to sire a child at the age of 74. The pamphlet had caused him moral damage, Chaplin said.

THE FAST LADY

British Comedy
Odeon Theatre

James Robertson Justice, who once taught at Shawnigan Lake Boys' School, is his familiar crusty self in this amusing tangle concerning a Scottish civil servant (Stanley Baxter) who learns motoring the hard way.

Mr. Justice is not only a Justice of the Peace, he is the father of the girl Baxter loves and his dictum is that Baxter cannot take her out until he has learned to drive safely.

So Baxter, a very obstinate Scot, goes to a driving school for lessons. His instructor cracks under the strain and Baxter finishes up in police court, where Mr. Justice Justice fines him 20 guineas for dangerous driving and a further 20 guineas for insulting the bench.

The lightweight story clips along at a fairly fast pace after car salesman Freddy Fox (Leslie Phillips) sells Baxter The Fast Lady.

From then on he is involved

B. Guiana Boss Nabs Opponents On Libel Charge

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters) — Bank clerk Anne Abraham was freed on $1,000 bail Saturday when she appeared in court here on a charge of seditious libel.

Miss Abraham, daughter of Arthur Abraham, permanent secretary to Premier Cheddi Jagan's development and planning ministry, was accused of conspiring with others to libel the government.

She was accused of writing and publishing documents claiming to show the Soviet Union sent sums of money to the British Guiana government.

Her defence lawyer won her bail after pointing out that Miss Abraham's passport had been confiscated and she could not leave the country. Trial was set for Sept. 30.

She and a male bank clerk were arrested Thursday as police raided the homes of United Force opposition leader Peter d'Aguilar and party member Senator Anne Jardim.

The raids followed allegations by Jagan's ruling People's Progressive Party of fraud by d'Aguilar's group.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Discoloured Water

In order to carry out important maintenance work on the water distribution system it will be necessary to reroute water in many areas inclusive. In view of the increased velocity of the water where smaller mains are used for main supply purposes it is possible that sediment may be lifted and cause discoloration. Pressure may also be lower in some cases during peak demand periods.

If colour of water is important to you please watch out for this possibility from 16th to 27th September inclusive. Discoloured water, if any, will in any event be quite harmless for drinking purposes.

J. C. GARNEITT,
City Engineer and Water Commissioner.

Arson Denied in Apartment Fire

NANAIMO—RCMP today denied a report that they suspect arson in a fire which destroyed an $86,000 apartment under construction in a subdivision at suburban Harewood on Saturday.

They believe the blaze originated from a small fire which broke out in the same building Friday—in a place where plumbers had been soldering. It was said to have been extinguished at the time, but apparently started to smoulder and flared up again.

"There is absolutely no evidence of arson," said a police officer.

Volunteer firemen worked throughout the night to prevent the fire from spreading to four other 12-unit apartment blocks.

The apartment unit was being built by A&B Construction Co. Ltd. for a Vancouver syndicate. It was about half complete.

The alarm was given shortly after 3 a.m. Firemen who were asleep at their homes at the time were at the scene within 10 minutes but by then the partly-completed frame structure was a mass of flames.

NANAIMO—Robert M. Strain, a Nanaimo High School graduate, is one of eight Canadians awarded a $5,000 scholarship by the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd.

The eight are sons and daughters of employees of the company.

SOOKE—Sooke volunteer firemen found Saturday that their work can be downright distasteful.

It wasn't a fire—there wasn't even any smoke—but it was a matter of life and death.

Their job: To rescue a horse from a cesspool. Bawhde, a 17-year-old horse owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Eddy, was carrying Sue Eddy, 13, at the rear of the Eddy home when he broke through the earth and into the well—fortunately for Sue, again first.

It took eight firemen and a tow truck more than two hours to get Bawhde out, and it was nip and tuck at that.

At the time, the horse was being used to pull a log out of the gully.

DUNCAN—An all-party rally for Cowichan-Newcastle candidates in the Sept. 30 provincial election will be sponsored by the Duncan Junior Chamber of Commerce at St. John's Hall on Sept. 23 at 8 p.m.

Candidates are Robert Strachan, NDP; Cy Craig, Conservative; George Whittaker, Liberal; and Don Morton, Socred.

Party campaign headquarters have been established at the following committee rooms: Conservatives and Socreds at the Duncan Shopping Plaza, Trunk Road; Liberals on Jubilee Street, and NDP on Kenneth Street.

DUNCAN—Miss Gerarda Hof, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Hof, Cherry Point Road, Cobble Hill, has been named winner of the annual $300 IWA scholarship.

Miss Hof, who is studying to become a teacher, is attending Victoria University. Her father is an employee of Hillcrest Lumber Co. of Mesachie Lake.

Salmon catches are beginning to taper off as the end of the season approaches.

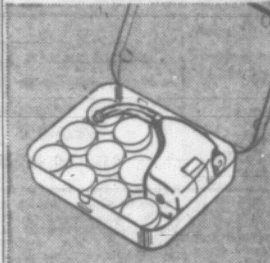

In the Vancouver, Steveston and Nanaimo area, the catch of salmon landed in the week ending Sept. 7 dropped 20 to 50 per cent from the week before.

Spring salmon landings were down 45 per cent, coho down 20 per cent, and pinks down 50 per cent, according to fisheries department statistics.

With the exception of pinks, landings were down from the same week in 1962.

He Read a Page With Single Glance

BILL CARMACK
... 10,000 words a minute

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Teachers say a Pittsburgh boy can read 10,000 words a minute, has been clocked at 30,000 on several occasions and once hit 40,000 words a minute.

The ability of Bill Carmack, 17, of the city's Mt. Washington section was uncovered last spring while he was taking a speed reading course at South Hills High School.

In a copyrighted story today, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette quoted school Principal Roy T. Mattern as saying:

"He's just one of those people who can glance at a page and tell you what's on it."

Last week, Bill demonstrated his reading ability for a reporter. The boy was handed a magazine story about Alexander the Great.

Bill started reading. The reporter just opened his notebook to record the time Bill started and the boy said:

"I'm finished."

Fifteen seconds had elapsed. The article was 1,500 words long. The boy then correctly summarized Alexander's military strategy and even two minor details.

The 10,000 words a minute is about 40 times faster than normal. At top speed, Bill could breeze through about 50 newspaper columns in one minute.

Ontario Deputy Quits With Blast at Gov't

TORONTO (CP)—Robert J. Cudney, Ontario's deputy provincial secretary, said Saturday he had resigned because of a promised within his department have not been carried out.

"I've had enough. I couldn't take any more," said the 33-year-old lawyer who had held the post for 18 of the 32 years he worked for the government.

Mr. Cudney, who testified before the royal commission on crime last year on the department's record in issuing social club charters, often used as a front for gambling concerns, said he handed in his resignation Friday.

He said he had tried to resign last March, the same month the report on Mr. Justice W. D. Roach's probe into organized crime was presented to the legislature, but had been asked to stay on by Premier Robarts.

"I was given certain assurances that certain reforms would be carried out in the department and I would be restored the authority and responsibility that statutes afford a deputy minister," he said.

'NOT FULFILLED'

"On these assurances I agreed to carry on. These assurances have not been fulfilled."

Although Mr. Cudney said his resignation had nothing to do with the Sept. 25 provincial election, his resignation was immediately whipped into a hot campaign issue by New Democratic and Liberal party leaders.

Donald C. MacDonald, NDP leader, campaigning in London, Ont., demanded the crime inquiry be reopened and that Mr. Cudney be reinstated.

He had earlier described the resignation as a "bombshell" that may well blow the lid off things in the campaign.

Liberal leader John Wintermeyer called a hastily-arranged press conference in Toronto and accused Provincial Secretary John Yaremko of waging a campaign of insults and harassment against his deputy.

Christmas Target For Power Pact

Charge Dismissed In Fish Sale Case

NANAIMO—A charge against Nanaimo fisherman Bill MacDonald for illegal sale of fish from a Harbor Commission float, Commercial Inlet, was dismissed in police court here Friday.

The court ruled there was no proof that Mr. MacDonald took any part in its proceedings.

Sale was held by the United Fishermen and Allied Worker's Union in aid of strike funds and grossed $4,000.

14-Year-Old Tomboy Too Much for Hoods

VANCOUVER (CP)—When a couple of hoodlums attempted to abduct 14-year-old Elenore Ganzer they found they had a wildcat on their hands.

"I was really mad," the spunky girl said today. "I'm kind of a tomboy and I've learned to handle myself."

She said she and a friend were walking home in the South Vancouver area Saturday when two youths drove up and offered them a ride.

When the girls refused the youths jumped out of their car and tried to force them into it. Elenore's friend escaped and Elenore was dragged into the back of the car by one of the youths.

"He said, 'You're going for a ride, doll, whether you like it or not.'"

"I thought I might end up in the morgue."

She said when the car stopped for a stop sign she bit and struggled with the youth, opened the door and ran.

"I tripped and he caught up with me and dragged me along the lane by my feet."

She kicked and scratched herself free again and, with her blouse torn off and her shoes gone, ran the seven blocks to her home.

Long List of Crime

EDMONTON (CP)—It took the clerk of the court 45 minutes to read the charges against William Stal, 25, of Edmonton. He pleaded guilty to 56 charges of breaking and entering and theft and was sentenced to 56 one-year concurrent terms.

Fish Story Has Crabby End

By ELSIE WORTHINGTON

GANGES—R. B. Stoke of North Vancouver, holidaying on Salt Spring Island, began to wonder the other day if he was seeing things.

He was fishing off the Vesuvius Bay wharf when he pulled out a crab wearing a pair of sunglasses.

The strange catch is confirmed by J. B. Reid, operator of Arbutus Court, where Mr. Stoke is a guest.

This is how it apparently happened:

The crab came along, crawled between the ear pieces and the glasses stuck.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"I went inna store and says to a lady, 'Would you please gimme a JFK Coloring Book?'" related Marty Ingels, the "Fenster" of TV, in great seriousness. "I paid her, and when I got otta the store, I see she gimme a Porky Pig Coloring Book. 'I go back in an say, 'Lady, you gimme a Porky Pig book whereas I ast for a JFK book.' 'She says, 'We don't have any JFK books.' I says, 'Gimme back my money.' She says, 'We don't take back no merchandise or give no refunds.' I says, 'Lady, I'll rip up your store.' She says, 'Get otta here or I'll call a policeman.'

"I find a traffic cop, 'Officer,' I says, 'that woman gimme a Porky Pig book whereas I ast her for a JFK book.' The cop says, 'Will you get otta here kid? We're busy.' I says, 'But I ast for a JFK book and she gimme a Porky Pig book!' Suddenly I realize what kinda madness I'm talkin' and start to laugh. You wanta buy a nice Porky Pig Coloring Book?"

Marty Ingels, to whom Jerry Lewis once said, "Kid, you're a bigger nut than I am," claims crazy things like that happen to him constantly. He's in the east now because the "I'm Dickens, He's Fenster" TV show came to an end.

It was a tremendous success with kids—and it had a cigar sponsor. Very few kids are smoking cigars just now.

Marty's been doing "Candid Camera," the "Tonight" show, and summer theatres, and riding out to his old Lincoln Place neighborhood in Brooklyn in a silver-colored Rolls-Royce that an agent meant he should only use for six blocks to his hotel.

"My street's so narrow, the Rolls can hardly negotiate it, see how good Marty Ingelman's done in Hollywood," he said. "The butcher don't believe it. He's puttin' his fish hands all over the car."

"Can't you hear that chauffeur back at the garage? He says, 'Boy, did I pick a real idiot today!'"

Marty's brand of madness appeals so strongly to Jerry Lewis, Tony Curtis, Steve Allen and others that he feels no fears about proceeding with the construction of a new house in Hollywood where he has a "rebellion room," where he can do all the things he couldn't as a kid.

"In the rebellion room," Marty says, "you hafta put ashes on the rug and you hafta put your feet up on things. You're kindly requested not to hang your clothes up but to drop them in a heap on the floor."

Marty, who greatly resembles Red Skelton, finds himself recognized everywhere now. When he came east, he was afraid he wouldn't be able to sleep.

"Here's a pill," a druggist told him, "you take one of these and you wake up in Chicago." Marty said, "But I'm going to New York."

"I ain't got no pills that go to New York," the druggist said, "but I gotta pill that changes in Pittsburgh."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Come Marty Allen of Allen & Rossi makes his film debut as a deaf-mute in the Montgomery Clift film, "The Heart is a Lonely Hunter."

Veteran actor Sidney Blackmer'll be in the Louis Nizer play, "The Label." ... Paul Anka's Atlantic City appearance brought out the cops to keep his fans off the stage. ... Elaine Stritch quits "Virginia Woolf" this month; Halla Stoddard of the TV soap opera.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Americanism is voting to set the speed limit at 50, and demanding a car that will do 90." —Bob Hope.

EARL'S PEARLS: Definition of a nudist: "A guy who finally got tired of looking for the other cufflink."

Max Asmus was asked if he lived in an apt. above his Stage Deli. "No," he said, "I only sleep up there. 'I live in the store.' ... That's earl, brother."

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions for select to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume of World Book Encyclopedia to Steve Garner, age 11, of Greensburg, Ky., for his question:

How do they know where to drill for oil?

A new method to detect buried petroleum is always welcome. Last month, still another gadget was put to work to help the experts in the endless search for oil in the ground. It will add data to the facts already gathered by surveys and geological tests. But with all this information, the best oilman can only guess where petroleum is buried.

A pool of oil may rest three miles below the surface of the ground. To prove the oil is there and get it out, the oilman must reach it by drilling a hole. This operation may cost $500,000 and far more if the oil is deep. Probing for petroleum is expensive, and the oilman tries to find the likely places before he starts to drill.

Geologists survey whole continents to find the places where oil is likely to be and where it is not likely to be. Their charts show where shallow seas once swamped the land, for oil tended to form under these conditions. Petroleum is found in layers of sandstone, limestone and other porous, sedimentary rocks formed under water.

When the pores of a thick layer of sedimentary rock are saturated with oil, we have a pool of petroleum. The reservoir of buried petroleum must be held in place by denser rocks below and on the sides. It must have a roof of dense, solid rock to prevent it from seeping to the surface. When these conditions are met, the oilman may decide to drill. But of nine drillings, only one is likely to yield a worthwhile supply.

The expert uses instruments to form a picture of the buried rocks and their formations. A gravity meter reveals the formation of dense and light rocks below ground. A magnetometer reveals buried lavas which are not likely to contain oil. An underground explosion may be used to create a small earthquake. Its vibrations reveal the densities of buried rocks.

TV Gadget Aids Oilmen

When all the data suggests a likely spot, the expert starts to drill for oil. As the drill bites down, it brings up samples for testing. These cores of rock show when the drill is nearing petroleum. If they are poor, they show that drilling is useless and the work stops. A new TV gadget may be used to spy down the drill hole. It provides more data to tell the oilman whether it is worthwhile to go on drilling.

The oilman's TV instrument can spy a mile down into the earth. One camera is trained on: the bottom of the hole while another scans the walls. It shows the minerals and formations where oil is or is not likely to occur. With surveys and other tests, this instrument will make it a little easier for the oilman to know where to drill. But with all this help, he cannot be certain until his drill reaches the buried pool, and a dark, oily fountain of petroleum gushes up with a roar to the surface.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Tommy Cooper, age 8, of Stuarts Draft, Va., for his question:

Does our moon have a shadow?

When the sloping sunbeams shine on a mountain, some of them are stopped from going any further. The mountain casts a dark shadow because the sunshine cannot pass through to the opposite side. Your solid body stops the sunbeams and casts a shadow on the ground. The moon is a big solid ball. The sun shines on one side of it, but the sunbeams cannot pass through to the other side.

On the opposite side from the sun, the moon casts a shadow way out into space. It is a tapering shadow, like a pointing finger 232,000 miles long. This distance is equal to almost 10 trips around the earth's equator. When the moon's long shadow falls upon the earth, we get a solar eclipse.

So What's Wrong With a Dog's Life?

Lady greyhound, above, living symbol of the bus line, couldn't care less if it rained cats and dogs. She's on a national tour with her own hooded raincoat made of silver scale material with a gold velvet lining. Lady has an entire wardrobe of costumes. Right, Toots, a 10-year-old wire-haired terrier, makes a spectacle of herself wherever she goes in Hagerstown, Md. The sunglasses were fashioned by owner Wilbur Potter to protect the canny canine when she hangs out the car window.

Cuba to Get Canada Wheat In Russ Deal

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—In a deal aimed at feeding Cuba and other Soviet satellites as well as the U.S.S.R. itself, Russia today agreed to buy more than $500 million worth of Canadian wheat.

It is the biggest wheat sale in Canadian history.

Under the deal announced here by Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp, the Soviet Union has the right to divert unspecified amounts of the wheat to "European socialist" countries other than Russia, subject to protection of regular Canadian markets in such Communist countries as Poland.

The deal also includes a

206 to Seek 52 Seats Election Day

A total of 206 candidates have been nominated for the Sept. 30 provincial election—24 fewer than in 1960.

Nominations closed at 1 p.m. today.

Social Credit and the New Democratic Party both had a full slate of 52 candidates well in advance of this.

The Liberals, with 51, were desperately trying to get a nominee in Alberni right up to the deadline.

"We have a man but he's out on the street right now trying to round up the necessary 50 signatures," said an official at 12:30.

44 TORIES

The Conservatives have only 44 in the field. They lack candidates in Atlin, Fernie, Grand Forks, Mackenzie, North and South Peace, Prince Rupert and Skeena.

There are five Communists running—one in Victoria, two in Vancouver Centre and one in each of North Vancouver, and Kamloops.

One member of the Socialist Party of Canada is running in Saanich. One independent is seeking election in Vancouver East.

specific and separate arrangement whereby Russia will pay cash for $33 million worth of wheat to be shipped directly from Canada to Cuba.

Reason for the deal is that Russia, normally a wheat exporter, had a poor crop this year. This reason was given by both Mr. Sharp and the head of the Soviet negotiators, S. A. Borisov, Soviet first deputy trade minister.

REVELATION LATER

It was not until after the two men had made their official announcements after signing a new three-year Canada-Soviet trade agreement under which the wheat is being sold, that it was disclosed Russia would not be taking all the wheat.

Mr. Sharp made the disclosures about the "diversions" to European Communist countries and Cuba under questioning by reporters.

The amount to be shipped to Cuba, he said, would be 16.5 million bushels (240,000 tons of wheat and 150,000 tons of flour) valued at $33 million. The Russians, Mr. Sharp added, had given no idea as to the amount of diversions to Soviet satellites in Europe.

The U.S. government had been kept informed of the Canadian negotiations with Russia and also had been told of

Ordeal at Sea Told by Wife Of Ex-City Man

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—"He kept asking for water. He became delirious after about three days. Then he was gone."

That's the way Mrs. Stuart L. Slade described the death of her husband as they drifted aboard their disabled cruiser.

The couple lived formerly in Victoria. A small, wiry woman with a deep tan, Mrs. Slade was rescued after 10 days adrift in the leaky cabin cruiser. The last three days were spent beside the body of her husband.

The tanker Perryville rescued Mrs. Slade Saturday. A U.S. Coast Guard cutter attempted to take the cruiser in tow, but it sank, with Slade's body. Mrs.

SUNNY DAY HEADY BREW IN BRITAIN

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP)—When England gets that rare thing—a full day of brilliant sunshine—the natives become restive.

Take Sunday at the local Spread Eagle pub:

A customer walked out of the pub clad only in his shirt and shoes. He left behind him his coat, pants, hat, underwear and false teeth. Said Mrs. Rena Owen, wife of the pub-keeper:

"It must have been the weather—the most glorious day this summer. It went to their heads more than the beer did."

Slade reached Jacksonville Sunday night.

The tanker spotted the cruiser, Crystal, about 120 miles northeast of Jacksonville. The Slades had left Miami for the Bahamas, but 20 miles from Miami and the engine quit and they drifted northward with the gulf stream.

Mrs. Slade said her 48-year-old husband had a leg infection and, as a citizen of Canada, was trying to reach British territory for treatment.

"He promised to fix the engine when he felt better, but he never did. We ran out of food and water after three days."

Malaria Attack Saved Him From Death at Sea in '42

By RAY SINCLAIR

The father of Stuart Slade recalled today how illness had saved his naval son from death at sea 21 years ago.

Leonard Slade, of 1179 Fort, said his son was down with malaria in an Alexandria hospital in 1942.

"The captain tried to get the doctor to release him, but he couldn't."

"The ship (fleet sweeper Hythe) sailed, and five hours later it went down." There were only 12 survivors.

Mr. Slade had not seen his son for two years when he heard a radio report Sunday night of the tragedy off Florida.

"I called the station, and then I had a call from a son in Vancouver," he said.

"Over the past few days all kinds of memories about his childhood had been running through my mind. Then this came."

Mr. Slade remembered that the leg infection which incapacitated his son on the tragic Bermuda voyage had been bothering him for some time. "He had it when he was here. It was more a varicose vein than anything. It had a tube in it, and the leg would swell terribly."

Mr. Slade originally established A. P. Slade and Co. in Victoria for his brother. He is still active in reality.

Stuart, the second of his three sons, was born "right in the house at 425 Durban Street" in 1918.

He was educated at Sir James Douglas School, and later joined the RCMP in Regina.

FEAR WAR

Malaysia Faces Dark Future

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Violent demonstrations in Indonesia and a cold shoulder from the Philippines darkened the birth of Malaysia today. In its first hours of life, the new nation found itself in deep trouble with its two biggest neighbors.

Neither the Philippines nor Indonesia recognizes the federation of Malaysia. In Indonesia, mobs stormed the British and Malayan embassy compounds to protest birth of the British-supported federation. In Manila the Philippine officials withheld recognition pending consultations with their diplomatic experts.

Both nations have placed claims to the North Borneo section of Malaysia.

KNEEL IN PRAYER

As Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman and King Yangdi-Petnam Agong of Malaya knelt here in prayerful thanksgiving, angry demonstrators stoned the Malayan and British embassies in Jakarta, Indonesia, in support of their government's opposition to the federation. A crowd of 5,000 tore down the British flag, smashed windows and set the British ambassador's car ablaze.

Malaya was the leader of the formation of Malaysia, bringing under one flag with Malaya the British colonies of Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo.

Malaysia foreign secretary Ghazalie Shafie expressed concern about the enmity of Indonesia and the Philippines. Asked by reporters whether Malaysia was prepared for a possible war with Indonesia if its hostility persisted, Shafie said:

"Let's hope to God not. We should not talk of war."

The Indonesian army heavily outnumbered the Malaysian armed forces, but the British are committed to Malaysian defence.

In a midnight address proclaiming the federation of Malaysia, Prime Minister Rahman told a crowd of 25,000 they must be ready to "sacrifice their lives to defend their country."

Rahman had been faced with some internal difficulties, too, in building Malaysia, which he calls a wall against the spread of communism in Southeast Asia.

In separate inaugural ceremonies in Singapore, Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew welcomed his state's admission to Malaysia but showed some of the misgivings of others within the federation by saying Singapore's relationship would not be one of servant to master.

'Extremely Vigorous' Quints Doing Well

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP)—The Fischer quintuplets rounded out their first 48 hours of life today with good prospects for survival.

The tiny but extremely vigorous babies born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer early Saturday were reported doing fine.

Dr. James Berbos, who delivered the infants, said they still were going strong on a diet of sugar water and may be switched to something heavier today, such as a milk formula.

Dr. Berbos reported that the infants were being fed about four cubic centimetres of sugar water every two hours.

Queen Expecting A Baby

LONDON (AP)—The Queen is expecting a baby early next year, Buckingham Palace announced tonight. It will be her fourth child.

The announcement came from the palace while the Queen was on her annual holiday with her family at Balmoral Castle in Scotland. Her press secretary said:

"Both the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh are, of course, very happy about it."

The 37-year-old Queen and her 42-year-old husband have three children, Prince Charles, 14, heir to the throne and Prince of Wales; Princess Anne, 13, and Prince Andrew, three.

The announcement from Buckingham Palace stated:

"The Queen will undertake no further engagements after Her Majesty leaves Balmoral, in October."

The new baby would be only the second child to be born to a reigning monarch in more than 100 years.

THIRD IN LINE

If the baby is a boy it will become third in line of succession to the throne after Prince Charles and Prince Andrew.

Princess Anne will then be fourth in line for the British throne.

If the baby is a girl it will be fifth in succession coming after Princess Anne and before the Queen's sister, Princess Margaret.

The Queen was 33 when she had her last child, Prince Andrew.

He was the first baby born to a reigning British monarch since Queen Victoria's ninth child, Princess Beatrice, 106 years ago.

'Most Frightening Day in Birmingham'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Against a background of violence and death, a special federal jury was ordered today to investigate racial outbreaks that continue to plague this city.

U.S. district judge Clarence W. Algood in his charge to the grand jury emphasized the dynamite explosion at a Negro church Sunday which killed four young Negro girls and injured 23 other persons.

Two other Negro boys were killed in separate shootings.

"Today has been the most frightening in the history of Birmingham," Sheriff Melvin Bailey said Sunday.

In suburban Sandusky, Virgil Ware, 13, a Negro, allegedly was shot to death by two white youngsters on a motor scooter.

Johnnie Robinson, 16, was shot and killed by police officers, who said they intended to shoot over his head after he threw rocks at their car.

The church blast was the worst of numerous bombings and other violence since Negroes began campaigning in earnest last April for integration here.

'Long Fearful Day and Night'

This tense city spent a long, fearful day and night after Sunday's blast. Several fires broke out, rocks were thrown by Negroes in various sections and some gunfire was reported.

Sunday school classes at the church were just ending a lesson on "the love that forgives" when the explosion tore out concrete, metal and glass.

The four girls apparently were in the lounge in the basement of the old brick church. One, Cynthia Wesley, 14, was hit by the full force of the blast and could be identified only by her clothing and a ring.

The others were Carol Robertson and Addie Mae Collins, both 14, and Denise McNair, 11.

Police estimated that 10 sticks of dynamite went into the death bomb, apparently placed in a stairwell about four feet below ground level outside the building.

The blast occurred while about 200 persons were in the church, including about 80 in basement classrooms. The explosion hurled chunks of concrete, twisted metal and shattered glass against nearby buildings. Several cars were damaged. The street and sidewalks were thickly covered with pieces of glass. Much of the glass came from windows in a nearby building—used for business and rental rooms.

In Washington today, President Kennedy expressed "outrage and grief" over the bombing. The president said that he hoped the tragedy would awaken the nation to "the folly of racial injustice and hatred and violence."

But he did not comment immediately on a telegram from Rev. Martin Luther King, Negro civil rights leader, who sought immediate federal action in Birmingham. Said King in the wire:

"Unless some immediate steps are taken by the federal government... we shall see in Birmingham and Alabama the worst racial holocaust the nation has ever seen."

Roy Wilkins, the executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, wired President Kennedy from New York that unless the federal government offers more than "pity and piecemeal aid against this type of bestiality," Negroes will "employ such methods as

WORLD'S GREATEST BRIDGE PLAYER, Oswald Jacoby, squinted at overcast Victoria sun today and said, "It sure is a change from Texas." He and his wife Mary-Zita, of Dallas, are in town for the Pacific Northwest Regional bridge tournament today through Sunday in the Empress Hotel. ## Bombshell Sex Report Lands on Mac's Desk

LONDON (CP)—A bulging report packed with political dynamite was delivered to Prime Minister Macmillan today and will set off a new and bitter chapter in the government sex and security scandal.

The 50,000-word report was personally delivered to the government by Lord Denning, a high court judge who since June 21 has investigated the possibility that the scandal that almost toppled Macmillan's government involved breaches of security.

It centres on the relations of disgraced former war minister John Profumo and party girl Christine Keeler, who also was carrying on an affair with a former Soviet naval attaché, Yevgeny Ivanov. Many Britons believe Denning's report will prove a bombshell.

Denning was asked by Macmillan to examine the security aspects of the affair, in which Profumo admitted lying to Parliament about his love affair with Christine.

But Macmillan also asked the distinguished jurist to probe "rumors affecting the honor and integrity of public life in this country."

Within these terms, Denning interviewed 160 witnesses ranging from prostitutes to the prime minister himself, and his report was expected to touch many sensitive spots on high places.

DECLINES COMMENT

Denning declined to comment on newspaper reports that he investigated the personal conduct of at least three cabinet ministers and one former minister.

University Comes Alive With First Classes in Session Today

HEAVY-LADEN with a small fortune in texts, freshman Victoria University student Jo-anne La Porte, 17, of Dawson Creek, staggered away from campus bookstore as first fall classes went in today. Registered in arts, Jo-anne wants to take honors in mathematics, "my best subject last year."

FRESH FROSH FACES, some topped by the required plastic bowler designating them as fledgling undergraduates, beamed out at empty lecture stand today as they waited instruction in chemistry 101. Professor was detained in throes of opening day administration. But smooth sailing is expected after opening storm subsides.

FROSTY MESSAGE inscribed on pavement outside Young Building said "Frosh are not welcome," the waggish message of senior students as lectures started today. It was the only sign of traditional unrest as more than 2,000 students jammed halls. Biggest problem was the registrar's as scores of students lined up to get timetables amended.

ELECTION NOTEBOOK

By FRANK RUTTER

'Political ... But Definitely'

Conservative leader Davie Fulton is coming to Victoria Tuesday to deliver a speech to the Kiwanis Club.

"Definitely non-political," said a Kiwanis official.

"Kiwanis isn't in the habit of getting into politics."

Well, here's news for Kiwanis: the speech will be "definitely political."

In fact Mr. Fulton is expected to make another surprising statement like his stop-the-Peace speech in Prince George, only on another issue this time. Tory officials say it will be the same type of start — opposition to an apparently popular policy.

Fact is, the engagement was made months before the election was announced, and at that time, the speech probably would have been non-political. But how can Davie resist now?

The Sacred campaign song Roll on Social Credit Roll on, of dubious status on the hit parade, rolls on for nine repetitious verses.

It contains such great lines as "Protect all our farmers"... Return Social Credit for all that is right... They work for the people with far-reaching sight."

A TV debate by the four major party leaders has fallen through because they couldn't agree on a time. Instead the CBC will carry a special four-part series on the 7 o'clock Show called The Men and the Issues with interviews by newspapermen. It starts Tuesday night.

There are between 700 and 1,000 Indians in Saanich riding and, according to NDP candidate John Windsor, who went campaigning on the reserves Saturday, they're showing great interest in the election.

Mr. Windsor has enlisted the support of a former Saskatchewan CCF cabinet minister, John H. Sturdy, onetime health

Murder Victim's Old Classmates Being Interviewed

City detectives are interviewing former classmates of George Down during his last year at Central Junior High School in an attempt to track down his murderer.

Police are asking all the boys who were in Down's class about each other. They are inquiring about any rows at school in which Down was involved. They want to know who his friends were.

The 17-year delivery boy left school late last year. He was found murdered in the Hudson's Bay Parkade early on the morning of Aug. 30.

It is more than two weeks now since Down was killed and Detective Inspector Charles Webb admitted that police still have no clue to his murderer.

ROUTES SURVEYED

Hovercraft 'Promising' For Nanaimo-Mainland

A Nanaimo-Vancouver route for hovercraft is the most promising B.C. service at the present time, a representative of the manufacturer said here today.

J. Max George is in B.C. making a survey of potential routes for Westland Aircraft Ltd., British firm which has developed air-cushioned vessels with speeds up to 74 miles per hour.

Mr. George said there would be no trouble establishing a fast hovercraft service from downtown Nanaimo to downtown Vancouver. A service between Vancouver and Victoria would need more study, he said, with a possible Island terminal in the Cordova Bay area to cut off the long haul to the Inner Harbor.

Mr. George's visit here from Britain follows that last month of Stuart J. Miller, representative in North America for Westland.

Mr. George will spend today exploring entry routes to the city, and is to see Monty Aldous, manager of the government ferry system, Tuesday.

He will also visit Nanaimo before returning to the mainland.

He came from Britain a month ago and expects to be in Canada for another three months examining possible routes and applications for hovercraft, over not only sea but lakes, land, snow and ice.

The hovercraft is a vessel which literally floats on a cushion of air and eliminates resistance encountered by ordinary displacement craft.

Prowler Pulls Bed Covers Off Woman

A prowler walked into a city woman's bedroom early Sunday and was pulling the covers off her bed when she awakened.

Mrs. Hilda Jones, 417 Parry, asleep in the room with her 12-year-old daughter, screamed and the intruder ran.

entry through an unlocked rear door through an unlocked rear door. The incident occurred shortly after 5 a.m.

Later Mrs. Jones discovered the intruder had broken open three rabbit pens and let loose six rabbits.

Mother Takes Child From School Despite Arrival of Textbooks

A Saanich mother who had threatened to remove her daughter from school unless she was given textbooks, did so this morning—even though the books had been supplied.

Mrs. Leslie Bayliss, 370 Ker, escorted her 14-year-old daughter Vanessa from Tillicum-Hampton School at about 10:15.

School principal R. H. Jones told The Times the textbooks were waiting for the girl when she went to school this morning, but that the mother took her out anyway.

"We parted on good terms," said Mr. Jones.

"I'm pretty sure she'll be back."

NO COMMENT

Mrs. Bayliss would not talk to reporters this morning, before or after she went in to retrieve her daughter.

She talked with the principal for about 20 minutes before she and her daughter emerged from the school. On seeing cameramen, they covered their faces with a purse and a book.

Later they posed, but still would not talk.

Mrs. Bayliss said Friday she had phoned Education Minister Peterson about the lack of textbooks, but he was out of town.

She then phoned deputy minister Dr. J. F. K. English, and "he told me it was none of his concern."

FEW WITHOUT

Only a few pupils are still without books, "largely because of the influx of unexpected pupils," says district school superintendent John Gough.

An anonymous complaint from an Esquimalt woman that no Grade 8 students at Esquimalt Junior High had textbooks was denied today by principal Don Smith.

"All Grade 8 students have opened had all their textbooks since Sept. 5," he said.

He said the woman may be confused because sets of textbooks are not issued to occupational students.

The woman's daughter is believed to be an occupational student.

NOT ISSUED

"They get books for use in class, and they may sometimes take them home, but they are not issued sets of books."

"The books they use are supplied by the school board, and they have been in the school since last year," said Mr. Oliver.

He said he had no idea who the complaining woman was, having no other notice of the complaint than an anonymous report in a newspaper.

"I haven't had a single phone call from a parent about textbooks since school

Pac Pete To Sell Gas Here

Pacific Petroleum Ltd., western Canada's petroleum "wunderkind," plans to enter the retail gasoline field at three sites in Victoria, it was revealed today.

Vancouver district sales manager R. M. Latta wrote City Hall that he wished to apply for necessary zoning to establish service stations at company-owned sites.

The locations are at the southeast corner of Hillside and Blanshard, northwest corner of Oak Bay and Richmond Avenues, and the southwest corner of Cook and View Streets.

Only the last site is zoned for a service station at present.

Danish Prince To Visit Island

Prince Axel of Denmark will visit properties of the East Asiatic Company on the west coast of Vancouver Island, it was learned today.

There is no indication he will visit Victoria at present.

The prince, who is chairman of the board of the East Asiatic Co., will arrive in Vancouver Sept. 26 for a five-day visit to B.C.

DIES HERE AT 84

Feasting to Follow Rites For Famed Carver's Widow

Mrs. Sarah Constance Abayah Martin, 84, a descendant of Kwakiutl chiefs and widow of great totem carver Mungo Martin, died Sunday in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Many of her 122 descendants will gather with friends Tuesday night for a special chapel service and traditional "keening," as they did for Chief Mungo exactly 13 months ago.

Then she will be taken in a motorcade to Alert Bay for burial next to her husband, whose name is known the world over for totemic carving, one of the greatest cultural contributions of the native coast dwellers.

"She was one of the cleverest women I knew," said a close friend of the family. Like her husband, she had a creative talent and wove many blankets.

She was alert and still able to weave when she became ill three months ago today. Her last blanket was then under way and remains half finished.

It will be treasured by one of her grandsons.

FEASTING

Chapel service by Rev. J. A. Roberts at Sands funeral home will be at 7 p.m., followed by feasting and traditional dancing for the family and close friends.

This will be done at the long house, among the totem poles carved by Mungo, at Thunderbird Park.

The two-day trip up the east coast of Vancouver Island to Alert Bay, in the Kwakiutl country, will be followed by another service at the Anglican Church there.

Mrs. Martin, of 102 Niagara, had lived the last 12 years in Victoria and prior to that was resident on the northeast coast of Vancouver Island, where most of her family remains. She was born on Turnour Island at the head of Queen Charlotte Strait.

About 20 relatives live in the Greater Victoria area, another 20 on the Lower Mainland.

Among the immediate relatives she leaves are:

Daughters Mrs. Gracie Nelson, 348 Michigan, and Mrs. Agnes Crammer, Alert Bay; a son Thomas Harris Hunt, 1239 Park Terrace; brothers Tom and Peter Smith, Turnour Island; a sister, Mrs. Margaret Cook, Vancouver; and numerous grandchildren, great-grandchildren, nieces and nephews.

Topics of the Day

Two separate accidents involving motorcycles sent two persons to hospital Saturday.

Stephen Cooley, 1960 Argyle, received cuts on his head and an ankle when his cycle was in collision with a car driven by Hans Waeli, 2994 Westdowne, at Bay and Quadra. He is reported in good condition today at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Mrs. Evelyn Elton of Cawston, B.C., was treated for bruises and shock at St. Joseph's Hospital after being involved in an accident at Wharf and Johnson.

She was on a motorcycle driven by Paul Swanson of Spokane that was in collision with a car driven by Robert Edwards, Scott Apartments.

Fire gutted the basement of the home of F. G. T. Simmons at 2184 Epworth Saturday.

Oak Bay firemen labored for an hour and a half to extinguish the blaze which destroyed the interior of the basement and did some slight damage upstairs as well.

Total damage was estimated at about $5,000. Firemen believe the fire was caused by an overloaded electrical circuit.

A man injured in a mining accident at Cowichan Copper Mine early Sunday is reported to be in fair condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Emergency Power Set For Jubilee

Emergency generators are ready for service now at Royal Jubilee Hospital, administrator George Masters said today.

Two diesel-powered generators with a total output of 250 horsepower passed working tests in recent days.

They are designed to provide emergency power for most of the hospital's services and wards in the event of a B.C. Hydro power failure.

Any power break will throw the first generator into automatic operation to serve the operating rooms, maternity ward, blood bank refrigeration and also light the hallways.

The second unit can then be operated manually to send power to any selected area or facility—such as elevators—as needed.

The second unit also acts as a standby when the other is undergoing maintenance. The emergency system was designed to take additional generators as needed for future expansions.

Parents demanding a sidewalk along McKenzie Ave. near Sacred Heart School plan to attend a Saanich public works committee meeting to-night in force.

A six-year-old girl, Elda Gatt, 670 Canterbury, was knocked down in front of the school Friday, and is still in hospital.

Meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. in the municipal council chamber.

Permission to hold a "log-saw" at Clover Point Saturday was requested by the Alma Mater Society of the University of Victoria today.

The group asked City Hall for permission to repeat its 1962 project of cutting up driftwood at the point for sale as firewood to the public. Proceeds go to charity.

Writers benefit from fraternizing with each other, says Yvonne H. Stevenson, a Victoria delegate to the recent Pacific Northwest International Writers' Conference in Seattle.

Miss Stevenson was guest speaker in an article workshop at the conference, and spoke of it during a panel discussion of the Victoria branch, Canadian Authors' Association, in the Douglas Building cafeteria on Thursday.

The panel was moderated by L. S. Mitchell of Victoria.

Edith M. Rive, who also participated, described the fiction sessions at the Seattle conference. Clara Hill Maunsel, another panel member, read Theodore Roethke's poem "The Rose."

Alleen Downie entertained with an account of her recent visit to the Stratford Festival.

The annual installation of officers of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society will be held in Holyrood House at 8 p.m. on Thursday. The meeting will be followed by a social evening.

Hammers echoed through Esquimalt Sports Centre this morning sounding the final setting up operations for Victoria Klansmen Fall Fair which runs all this week.

The fair opened this afternoon at 3 but official opening ceremonies will be performed tonight at 8 by deputy minister of trade and commerce T. L. Sturgess.

Victoria gained another airport today as the department of transport licensed the heliport on the roof of the curling rink.

This is for the fair's featured ride, a 15-minute helicopter trip over the city.

Cuba to Get Canada Wheat In Russ Deal

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—In a deal aimed at feeding Cuba and other Soviet satellites as well as the U.S.S.R. itself, Russia today agreed to buy more than $500 million worth of Canadian wheat.

It is the biggest wheat sale in Canadian history.

Under the deal announced here by Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp, the Soviet Union has the right to divert unspecified amounts of the wheat to "European socialist" countries other than Russia, subject to protection of regular Canadian markets in such Communist countries as Poland.

The deal also includes a specific and separate arrangement whereby Russia will pay cash for $33 million worth of wheat to be shipped directly from Canada to Cuba.

SENATOR CALLS DEAL 'SHOCKING BREACH'

WASHINGTON (CP)—Senator Kenneth Keating said today the Canadian agreement to divert $33,000,000 worth of wheat and flour to Cuba as part of a huge wheat deal with Russia is a "shocking breach" of Western co-operation to isolate Premier Fidel Castro economically and politically.

"I hope our government will lodge a strong and immediate protest at this kind of short-sighted international profiteering," the New York Republican said in a statement.

Bombing Kills Four Negroes

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Against a background of violence and death, a special federal jury was ordered today to investigate racial outbreaks that continue to plague this city.

U.S. district judge Clarence W. Allgood in his charge to the grand jury emphasized the dynamite explosion at a Negro church Sunday which killed four young Negro girls and injured 23 other persons.

Two other Negro boys were killed in separate shootings.

"Today has been the most frightening in the history of Birmingham," Sheriff Melvin Bailey said Sunday.

In suburban Sandusky, Virgil Ware, 13, a Negro, allegedly was shot to death by two white youngsters on a motor scooter.

Johnnie Robinson, 16, was shot and killed by police officers, who said they intended to shoot over his head after he threw rocks at their car.

The church blast was the worst of numerous bombings and other violence since Negroes began campaigning in earnest last April for integration here.

Widow Tells Of Tragedy

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—"He kept asking for water. He became delirious after about three days. Then he was gone."

That's the way Mrs. Stuart L. Slade described the death of her husband as they drifted aboard their disabled cruiser.

Mr. Slade formerly lived in Victoria.

A small wiry woman with a deep tan, Mrs. Slade was rescued after 10 days adrift in the leaky cabin cruiser. The last three days were spent beside the body of her husband.

The tanker Perryville rescued Mrs. Slade Saturday. A U.S. Coast Guard cutter attempted to take the cruiser in tow, but it sank, with Slade's body. Mrs. Slade reached here Sunday.

The tanker spotted the cruiser, Crystal, about 120 miles northeast of Jacksonville. The Slades had left Miami for the Bahamas, but 20 miles from Miami and the engine quit and they drifted northward with the gulf stream.

Mrs. Slade said her 48-year-old husband had a leg infection and, as a citizen of Canada, was trying to reach British territory for treatment.

"He promised to fix the engine when he felt better, but he never did. We ran out of food and water after three days."

Fourth For Royal Couple

LONDON (AP)—The Queen is expecting a baby early next year, Buckingham Palace announced tonight. It will be her fourth child.

The announcement came from the palace while the Queen was on her annual holiday with her family at Balmoral Castle in Scotland. Her press secretary said:

"Both the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh are, of course, very happy about it."

The 37-year-old Queen and her 42-year-old husband have three children. Prince Charles, 14, heir to the throne and Prince of Wales; Princess Anne, 13, and Prince Andrew, three.

The announcement from Buckingham Palace stated:

"The Queen will undertake no further engagements after Her Majesty leaves Balmoral, in October."

The new baby would be only the second child to be born to a reigning monarch in more than 100 years.

THIRD IN LINE

If the baby is a boy it will become third in line of succession to the throne after Prince Charles and Prince Andrew.

Princess Anne will then be fourth in line for the British throne.

If the baby is a girl she will be fourth in succession coming after Princess Anne and before the Queen's sister, Princess Margaret.

The Queen was 33 when she had her last child, Prince Andrew.

He was the first baby born to a reigning British monarch since Queen Victoria's ninth child, Princess Beatrice, 106 years ago.

How to Beat Socialism

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Norway's first non-Socialist government in 28 years presented to Parliament today a program political experts called more socialist than any the Socialists had put forward.

Among other things, it pledged new benefits for widows and aged persons and promised to build 30,000 houses a year compared with the 20,000 the Socialists had proposed.

In foreign affairs, the new Conservative-led coalition government said it would keep Norway's close ties to the Atlantic alliance and the United Nations. The program was silent on whether Norway would continue its efforts to join the European Common Market.

'Long Fearful Day and Night'

This tense city spent a long, fearful day and night after Sunday's blast. Several fires broke out, rocks were thrown by Negroes in various sections and some gunfire was reported.

Sunday school classes at the church were just ending a lesson on "the love that forgives" when the explosion tore out concrete, metal and glass.

The four girls apparently were in the lounge in the basement of the old brick church. One, Cynthia Wesley, 14, was hit by the full force of the blast and could be identified only by her clothing and a ring.

The others were Carole Robertson and Addie Mae Collins, both 14, and Denise McNair, 11.

Police estimated that 10 sticks of dynamite went into the death bomb, apparently placed in a stairwell about four feet below ground level outside the building.

The blast occurred while about 200 persons were in the church, including about 80 in basement classrooms. The explosion hurled chunks of concrete, twisted metal and shattered glass against nearby buildings. Several cars were damaged. The street and sidewalks were thickly covered with pieces of glass. Much of the glass came from windows in a nearby building—used for business and rental rooms.

In Washington today, President Kennedy expressed "outrage and grief" over the bombing. The president said that he hoped the tragedy would awaken the nation to "the folly of racial injustice and hatred and violence."

But he did not comment immediately on a telegram from Rev. Martin Luther King, Negro civil rights leader, who sought immediate federal action in Birmingham. Said King in the wire:

"Unless some immediate steps are taken by the federal government... we shall see in Birmingham and Alabama the worst racial holocaust the nation has ever seen."

Roy Wilkins, the executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, wired President Kennedy from New York that unless the federal government offers more than "piecemeal and piecemeal aid against this type of bestiality," Negroes will "employ such methods as

'Extremely Vigorous' Quints Doing Well

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP)—The Fischer quintuplets rounded out their first 48 hours of life today with good prospects for survival.

The tiny but extremely vigorous babies born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer early Saturday were reported doing fine.

Dr. James Berbos, who delivered the infants, said they still were going strong on a diet of sugar water and may be switched to something heavier today, such as a milk formula.

Dr. Berbos reported that the infants were being fed about four cubic centimetres of sugar water every two hours.

He said he expected to decide today whether the four girls and one boy should get their first weighing.

Malaysia Faces Dark Future

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Violent demonstrations in Indonesia and a cold shoulder from the Philippines darkened the birth of Malaysia today. In its first hours of life, the new nation found itself in deep trouble with its two biggest neighbors.

Neither the Philippines nor Indonesia recognizes the federation of Malaysia. In Indonesia, mobs stormed the British and Malaysian embassy compounds to protest birth of the British-supported federation. In Manila the Philippine officials withheld recognition pending consultations with their diplomatic experts.

Both nations have placed claims to the North Borneo section of Malaysia.

KNEEL IN PRAYER

As Prime Minister Tan Sri Abdul Rahman and King Yangdi-Petnam Agong of Malaysia knelt here in prayerful thanksgiving, angry demonstrators stoned the Malaysian and British embassies in Jakarta, Indonesia, in support of their government's opposition to the federation. ## Saved by Malaria During Wartime

By RAY SINCLAIR

The father of Stuart Slade recalled today how illness had saved his naval son from death at sea 21 years ago.

Leonard Slade, of 1179 Fort, said his son was down with malaria in an Alexandria hospital in 1942.

"The captain tried to get the doctor to release him, but he couldn't."

"The ship (fleet sweeper Hythe) sailed, and five hours later it went down." There were only 12 survivors.

Mr. Slade had not seen his son for two years when he heard a radio report Sunday night of the tragedy off Florida.

"I called the station, and then I had a call from a son in Vancouver," he said.

"Over the past few days all kinds of memories about his childhood had been running through my mind. Then this came."

Mr. Slade remembered that the leg infection which incapacitated his son on the tragic Bermuda voyage had been bothering him for some time.

"He had it when he was here. It was more a varicose vein than anything. It had a tube in it, and the leg would swell terrifically."

Mr. Slade originally established A. P. Slade and Co. in

SUNNY DAY HEADY BREW IN BRITAIN

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP)—When England gets that rare thing—a full day of brilliant sunshine—the natives become restive.

Take Sunday at the local Spread Eagle pub:

A customer walked out of the pub clad only in his shirt and shoes. He left behind him: his coat, pants, hat, underwear and false teeth.

Said Mrs. Rena Owen, wife of the pub-keeper:

"It must have been the weather—the most glorious day this summer. It went to their heads more than the beer did."

"All we want is for the chap to collect his stuff. The sunshine won't last, and he'll need his clothes."

Bombshell Sex Report Lands on Mac's Desk

LONDON (CP)—A bulging report packed with political dynamite was delivered to Prime Minister Macmillan today and will set off a new and bitter chapter in the government sex and security scandal.

The 50,000-word report was personally delivered to the government by Lord Denning, a high court judge who since June 21 has investigated the possibility that the scandal that almost toppled Macmillan's government involved breaches of security.

It centres on the relations of disgraced former war minister John Profumo and party girl Christine Keeler, who also was carrying on an affair with a former Soviet naval attaché, Yevgeny Ivanov. Many Britons believe Denning's report will prove a bombshell.

Denning was asked by Macmillan to examine the security aspects of the affair, in which Profumo admitted lying to Parliament about his love affair with Christine.

But Macmillan also asked the distinguished jurist to probe "rumors affecting the honor and integrity of public life in this country."

Within these terms, Denning interviewed 160 witnesses ranging from prostitutes to the prime minister himself, and his report was expected to touch many sensitive spots on high places.

DECLINES COMMENT

Denning declined to comment on newspaper reports that he investigated the personal conduct of at least three cabinet ministers and one former minister.

206 to Seek 52 Seats Election Day

A total of 206 candidates have been nominated for the Sept. 30 provincial election — 24 fewer than in 1960.

Nominations closed at 1 p.m. today.

Social Credit and the New Democratic Party both had a full slate of 52 candidates well in advance of this.

The Liberals, with 51, were desperately trying to get a nominee in Alberni right up to the deadline.

"We have a man but he's out on the street right now trying to round up the necessary 50 signatures," said an official at 12:30.

44 TORIES

The Conservatives have only 44 in the field. They lack candidates in Atlin, Fernie, Grand Forks, Mackenzie, North and South Peace, Prince Rupert and Skeena.

There are five Communists running — one in Victoria, two in Vancouver Centre and one in each of North Vancouver, and Kamloops.

One member of the Socialist Party of Canada is running in Saanich. One independent is seeking election in Vancouver East.

On the local scene all four major parties have candidates in Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt. (See nomination list Page 26.)
